

$3908 OF DE SOTO BANK LOOT FOUND IN CANS ON FARM

Threat to Arrest Family of Farmer Who Confessed Participation in Holdup Leads to Recovery.

PROBABLE SHARES OF TWO IN PLOT

Money Believed to Have Been Hidden for Owner of Land and Former Chief of Police.

HILLSBORO, Mo., Feb. 26.—William Perkins, the farmer who admitted more than a month ago that he had deserted the plough for the holdup man's pistol, was willing to let local officers think he had told all when he confessed participation in the $10,640 robbery of American Bank at De Soto on Dec. 25.

But yesterday after Raymond Crews, one of his accomplices, had supplied a few missing details to Perkins' confession the farmer broke down and admitted that a sizeable part of the loot was still hidden on his farm 12 miles southwest of De Soto. During the afternoon he dug up on his farm a total of $3908 in silver, gold and currency.

Perkins in his confession to Sheriff Ray Williams and agents of the William J. Burns International Detective Agency on Jan. 11 last, involved Chief of Police Lionel W. Hearst in the De Soto robbery.

Blamed Former Deputy.

Hearst, in another confession, blamed it all on Crews, his former deputy. Crews, he said, had forced him to go out of town on the day of the holdup, and that he had committed without interruption. Later Crews, who had fled, read newspaper stories of the Chief's confession. He surrendered to Sheriff Williams Tuesday, resolved that "Lionel Hearst" won't make me the goat."

Crews' confession led the Sheriff and Burns' men to believe that some of the loot was still hidden on Perkins' farm. The farmer denied it, however, until Williams threatened to arrest his wife and two children. Then Perkins volunteered to take the officers to his farm.

On the banks of the Big River on his farm, where $2000 in Liberty Bonds had been recovered previously, the farmer yesterday dug up a tin can containing more than $1000.

"Not enough," commented the Sheriff, after the money had been counted. "Dig some more."

$2808 of Loot Recovered.

After a conference with his 17-year-old son, Perkins brought up another can.

"Now get another one," Williams ordered.

When he had finished digging the officers had four cans containing $3908. Allowing for the Liberty Bonds already found, and some money spent by Perkins, the Sheriff and Burns' men believe it constitutes Hearst's and Perkins' share of the loot. The rest was taken by Crews and an accomplice known as "Bill," for whom a search is being made.

Meanwhile, Hearst has repudiated the confession he made to officers last month and is scheduled to go to trial on May 12.

POLICE CAPTAIN SCHWARTZ TO BE ASSISTANT CHIEF

Commissioners Select Him to Succeed Rundle, Who Resigned Recently.

Police Captain Albert Schwartz of Laclede Avenue District will be named to succeed Assistant Chief of Police Rundle, who resigned recently.

The decision was reached, it is understood, at a meeting of the Board of Police Commissioners this afternoon. Other changes as a result of Rundle's resignation are reported as the appointment of Capt. William Walton as Inspector of Police to replace Albert Weitzel, who will become a Captain, and the promotion of Lieut. George Dineen to take Schwartz' place at Laclede District.

PRESIDENT SIGNS TAX BILL, DATE OF RETURNS DELAYED

ing room for the semiweekly meeting of his cabinet.

It was stated at the White House late today that the President gave no likelihood of further tax reduction for some time, although he believes a further cut will be possible ultimately as a natural result of further reduction in the public debt.

On the basis of present indications, the President expects the tax reduction bill he signed today to result in a Treasury deficit of $100,000,000 at the end of the next fiscal year.

Reviewed by Treasury.

The bill received final Congressional sanction Wednesday and was transmitted yesterday to the White House, from where it was sent to the Treasury for review before being signed by the President.

The bill pares down income taxes to their lowest level since the World War and wipes out virtually all the miscellaneous excise and occupational war levies.

Under the new schedule a married man with two children will have to make $4300 before he is subject to income taxation.

Personal exemptions are increased from $1000 to $1500 for single persons and from $2500 to $3500 for married persons. The normal rates are reduced from 2 to 1 1/2 per cent on the first $4000 of taxable income, from 4 to 3 per cent on the next $4000, and from 5 to 4 per cent on the remainder. Surplus rates, now ranging upward to 40 per cent, are scaled down so that the new maximum is 20 per cent.

These miscellaneous excise and occupational taxes are repealed outright.

Automobile trucks; automobile tires and parts; jewelry; cameras and lenses; photographic films and plates; firearms and ammunition, except pistols; automatic slot machines; mah jong sets; works of art; brooks; bowling alleys; pool and billiard tables; shooting galleries; riding academies; automobiles for hire; tobacco manufactures; opium dispensers; yachts, except foreign built; beaver purchased; stamp levies on deeds and various other legal papers.

Auto Tax Reduced.

The tax on passenger automobiles is cut from 5 to 3 per cent; that on admission tickets is amended to exempt tickets costing 75 cents, in place of the present 50 cent maximum; varying reductions are made in the tax on virtually all grades of cigars, and the tax on alcohol is reduced from $2.20 to $1.65 per proof gallon.

The capital stock tax is repealed and the flat corporation income tax is increased from the present 12 1/2 to 13 per cent on taxes paid.

BALDWIN'S POLICE RECORD SENT TO SUPREME COURT

Reports Showing St. Louis-an Was Arrested 69 Times Filed to Fight Re-hearing Plea.

CONVICTED TWICE, FINED SIX TIMES

Speaker Parker, as Defendant's Attorney, Represented Him as an Industrious Young Man.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 26.—A certified copy of the police record of Sylvester Baldwin of St. Louis, whose case was caused some friction in Division No. 2 of the State Supreme Court since a majority of the Judges granted a rehearing of his appeal from a highway robbery conviction on submission of alibi affidavits not a part of the trial record, was filed today in Supreme Court. It shows Baldwin had been arrested 69 times, convicted twice on burglary and robbery charges, and fined in police court on six occasions.

James H. Parker, speaker of the House of Representatives, who is Baldwin's attorney, stated Baldwin was an industrious hard-working young man who never had been in much trouble when he was active, recently in seeking the rehearing from the Judges in chambers.

The record filed with the court is in the form of an affidavit by John M. Shea, Bertillon superintendent of the St. Louis Police Department, stating it is a true record of Baldwin as shown by files of the Police Department.

Placed in Court Files.

Chancellor through which the police record reached the Attorney General's department for filing were not disclosed. The record will be placed in the court files with the alibi affidavits submitted by Parker for the defense. Neither the affidavits nor the police record can be considered by the Court on rehearing of the case, it was said, as the rehearing will be limited to the trial record that is properly before the court.

The affidavit states Baldwin was arrested in May, 1917, on a charge of larceny and placed on probation by Juvenile Court. In October, 1919, he was sentenced to two years in the Booneville reformatory for burglary but was paroled from the bench in Circuit Court. He was sentenced to five years in prison in the case now before the court involving a highway robbery charge when he was tried March 25, 1924, before Circuit Judge Falkenhainer.

Among the entries in the affidavit are six police court cases in which Baldwin was fined, including three charges of disturbing the peace, two charges of being drunk on the street and one of careless operation of an automobile. Several other cases in police court and the Court of Criminal Correction were dismissed.

Arrested 45 Times Since 1918.

The record shows that since 1918 Baldwin has been arrested by the police 45 times, suspected of robbery, burglary or larceny, but was released each time when there was no evidence to hold him. Other arrests were on charges of assault, operating an automobile without the owner's consent, violation of the "bone dry" law and leaving the scene of an accident, but they were disposed of through refusal of warrants, lack of prosecution, dismissal or release when there was no evidence to hold him.

Division No. 2 yesterday overruled a motion by Attorney-General Gentry to transfer the rehearing to the Supreme Court on band Chief Justice David E. Blair and Judge J. T. White, who originally voted for the rehearing, voted to overrule the motion for transfer. Robert F. Walker, presiding Judge of the division, dissenting. Judge Walker then attempted to certify the case to court en banc, anyway, as presiding Judge, on the ground one dissent justified the transfer. Judges Blair and White refused to approve the certification of the case and it will remain in Division No. 2.

COUNT SAIM SAYS HIS WIFE WAS VICTIM OF POOR ADVICE

"But for It, We Would Be Living Happily Together," He Declares.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Count Ludwig Salm von Hoogstraeten, emerging from retirement here today, announced formally that he would now be living happily with his wife, the former Millicent Rogers, if she had not been the "victim of poor advice."

The Count declared he earnestly hoped she would be happy. He has legal proceedings pending for separation, charging his wife with unjustifiable abandonment. This she has denied.

Mutual love only, Count Salm said in his statement, "was the reason for our marriage and its secret was not of my choosing. Our correspondence for nearly one year after our separation was wholly in terms of endearment."

There was never any disagreement between us until my wife notified me suddenly that she would not return to me. I pleaded with her to reconsider, but she refused."

In addition a two-thirds interest in the architect's firm bearing his name, valued at $101,902, is listed.

ALLEGED BLASPHEMER CAN'T SPEAK FOR SELF

Massachusetts Decision Bars Atheist From Witness Stand—Defense Rests.

By the Associated Press.

BROCKTON, Mass., Feb. 26.—The defense in the Anthony Binba blasphemy trial rested today without the young communist editor of Brooklyn taking the stand.

A Massachusetts decision makes incompetent as a witness an atheist proved to be so by the testimony of others.

The third threatening letter since the trial of Anthony Binba, Lu-the trial opened here three days ago, was received today by Associate City Attorney Joseph Veracka, assisting in the prosecution of Binba under a Massachusetts statute 229 years old.

The letter came by special delivery from Portland, Me., and read: "Let Binba alone. We will burn your house some night and get you. The time comes soon for us workers to strike. Then we will burn all the churches and all United States flags and Trotsky will come to us."

(Signed) "THE CHEKA, G. P. U." Veracka said he did not understand the significance of the initials "G. P. U." The Cheka is the secret police of the Russian Soviet.

On the first day of the trial Veracka received a letter threatening Binba with death if Binba was convicted. Yesterday a second letter threatened dire penalties if Binba was not convicted. All three letters have been turned over to the postal authorities for investigation.

Anton Eudaco who swore out the complaint on which Binba was arrested on charges of blasphemy and sedition, today admitted, under cross-examination, that in 1922 he had gone to the Mayor's office with others to protest against a ban being placed upon a show to be given in Lithuanian National Hall in which a priest was pictured as an adulterer, drunkard and murderer. The defense dismissed the witness as soon as this admission had been elicited.

Tried to Stop Meeting.

Eudaco previously had said that about three hours before the Binba meeting was to begin he had visited the City Marshal in a vain attempt to prevent Binba from speaking.

Stanislaus Krauchunas, a Lithuanian defense witness, said he was a citizen and had been a resident of the United States for 25 years. He testified that Binba had read letters describing the tortures of political prisoners in Lithuania which caused many of the audience, including himself, to shed tears.

"If the priests believed in God they would not do as they are in Kovno," said Binba had declared in his address. He testified that Binba had dwelt at great length on the need of education of the workers and for that purpose had recommended that they join the Lithuanian Workers' Literary Society.

The witness denied hearing Binba use the word "revolution" at any time or his saying that the red flag would fly in Washington and Brockton.

Not a Red Society.

City Attorney Rubin asked if the literary society was a branch of the Communist party. The witness denied this.

"Do you believe in God?" Rubin asked.

There was an objection by the defense, who claimed that a witness could not be examined as to his religious opinions. After an argument the question was admitted on the understanding that questioning should go no further in that line. Krauchunas replied: "No," but a moment later he added that he believed in a "Heavenly God."

The State yesterday concluded presentation of its evidence. An early Massachusetts decision, since affirmed, makes incompetent as a witness an atheist proved to be so by the testimony of others, so that defense counsel said it was doubtful whether they would attempt to have Binba take the stand in his own behalf.

ROBBERS MISS PAYROLL WHEN MAN IS DELAYED AT BANK

Holdup Pair Visit Heating Firm and Run Out When Shown Empty Envelopes.

John T. Bradley, president of the Bradley Heating Co., heating and ventilating engineers, 2834 Olive street, was delayed this morning at the bank, where he went to obtain the payroll money. He should have returned about 11:30 a. m. At that time two robbers, holding handkerchiefs to their faces and flourishing revolvers, entered the office and demanded the payroll.

The first robber ordered L. W. Moon, the firm's engineer, who was seated at his desk in the front part of the office, to surrender the payroll money. The other robber ran around the partition and threatened C. H. Winkler, the office manager and only other occupant of the office. He said the money had not arrived and pointed to the empty payroll envelopes.

The other robber then called to his companion and the two ran out and climbed into a Studebaker touring car parked across the street, where another man sat at the wheel. The car was driven west in Olive street and disappeared after turning north in Vandeventer avenue. Bradley was robbed of a $700 payroll last April.

FOSTERED CHECKERS; ACCUSED OF HERESY

Former High School Principal in Indiana Also Promoted Roller Skating.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PALMYRA, Ind., Feb. 26.—W. Clyde Martin, former athletic and former principal of the high school here, will go to trial tomorrow before the church of Christ on charges of heresy growing out of his introduction of athletics into the school and the building of his own expense of a community where he permitted dramatic and checker playing.

His expulsion from the church has been demanded by conservative members.

"If Jesus Christ were to come to Palmyra and visit Ranger Community Hall, I am sure that he personally would approve of my course," said Martin today.

Martin is 40, a native of Palmyra, who came back home from Winona Agricultural College, where he was a star athlete, and shocked conservatives of his church by organizing a basketball and football teams among the pupils of the high school and encouraging such things as roller skating and band practice on Sunday.

Ousted from his job he promptly built the Community Hall.

"In all communities, particularly rural communities like this, the four things of greatest influence are religion, home life, education and recreation," Martin continued.

"No question is raised by the average person as to the importance of the first three. It is the lack of wholesome, harmless recreation that the church member so often stumbles and falls.

"Professed followers of Christ, unlike Christ, Himself, often neglect the practical application of Christianity to our every-day life. The Bible plainly says that Christ went everywhere doing good, relieving the afflicted, a wine-bibber, a friend of sinners."

"I am trying to follow out His example. I believe myself a true Christian. My hall is the kind of a hall a Christian would run. I want home folks to use this hall. Many are doing so, yet I find bitter opposition to it and to me because some of the rougher elements visit it."

"I invited them to come so long as they behave themselves according to the standards of decent people, just as when they attend church they must make themselves to the level of church members in their behavior."

Coolidge Goes to Reception Alone.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—A reception was given last night at the Congressional Club for President and Mrs. Coolidge with only one of the guests of honor present. The President attended, but Mrs. Coolidge, who has been ill with cold, remained at the White House.

No, your honor, you should let me repeat adding that people often come in to see her."

Warren I. Lee, attorney for Mrs. Manton, a little later asked if it had not excited her curiosity when three or four persons marched into her bedroom at that hour in the morning. "I didn't see four," Miss Manton answered. "I saw only one, Mr. Rourke."

"Didn't you see the women?" "I did not. If there were any women there they were in the sitting room and I didn't see them."

Miss Manton, previously had testified that she was in bed, clad in a nightgown, and that Manton, with his coat, collar and tie removed, was sitting with his back against the foot of the bed, reading a book in his left hand.

"Were you glad to see these people come in?" persisted Lee. "Yes," Miss Manton replied. "I thought they were friends and welcomed anything to break the monotony of my part. You know, our life in the theater brings where other life stops."

Asked Him Not to Slam Door.

She delivered this last observation in a tone of amused tolerance. She said she had greeted Manton, not as an old friend, but as a friend, who had shaken hands and then, when she saw he was going, had asked him not to slam the door when he left.

All the witnesses who testified concerning the raid ultimately agreed that Miss Manton had not been the least flustered or embarrassed. Her attorney, Bernard H. Sandler, followed up this point.

"Were you nervous after this hearing was asked, certainly not," replied Miss Manton.

"Did you continue rehearsing your lines with Mr. Manton?" "Certainly."

"It didn't disturb your equilibrium?" "Certainly not—not a bit."

Manton, she said, remained about three-quarters of an hour after the raid and continued in her employ till "Antonio" opened. He developed, had a small part in the play.

When Miss Manton was first making her way to the witness stand a court attendant whispered to her to remove her

Man's Wife Found Pair Together and Is Suing for Divorce—'Love' Telegram Called a Joke.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Marjorie Rambeau, who is starring in a play called "The Night Duel," took the witness stand in Supreme Court yesterday and tried to convince Justice Wasservogel and a jury that there was nothing improper in an actress having her stage director as the man who gives her cues in the apartment at 3 o'clock in the morning to help her rehearse a part in a play.

William Kevitt Manton, actor, whose wife is suing him for divorce, naming Miss Rambeau as co-defendant, was the man whom Miss Rambeau testified she had hired to help her rehearse a difficult part in the play "Antonio" last season. He was in her room at Hotel Endicott around 2:30 o'clock on the morning of Aug. 29, she admitted, and the next day she worked on the manuscript of the play when someone entered.

The someone, she subsequently learned, was Israel Rourke, a private detective employed by Mrs. Manton. There were several others in the room, she testified, including Manton herself, but Miss Rambeau said she noticed no one but Rourke.

Frequently Had Calls.
She looked at Justice Wasservogel in astonishment when he asked if she had seen Rourke. "Yes, he was there, or if she had telephoned to the clerk of the hotel."

"No, your honor, why should I?" she replied, adding that people who come in to see her.

Karen I. Lee, a friend of Mrs. Manton, a little later asked if it had not excited her curiosity when three or four persons marched into her bedroom at that hour in the morning. "I didn't see four," Miss Rambeau answered. "I saw only one, Mr. Rourke."

"Didn't you see the women?" "I don't know. If there were any women there they were in the sitting room and I didn't see them."

Miss Rambeau previously had testified that she was in bed, clad in a nightgown, and that Manton, with his coat, collar and tie removed, was sitting with his back against the foot of the bed, rehearsing her in her part.

"Were you glad to see these people come in?" persisted Lee. "Yes," Miss Rambeau replied. "I thought they were friends and welcomed anything to break the monotony of my part. You know, our life in the theater begins when the lights stop."

Asked Him Not to Slam Door.
She delivered this last observation in a tone of amused tolerance. She said she had greeted Rourke, "not as an old friend, but as a friend," had shaken hands with him, when she saw he was going, had asked him not to slam the door when he left.

All the witnesses who testified concerning the raid unanimously agreed that Miss Rambeau had not been the least flustered or embarrassed. Her attorney, Bernard H. Sandler, followed up this point. "Were you nervous after this visit?" he asked. "Certainly not," replied Miss Rambeau.

Man's Wife Found Pair Together and Is Suing for Divorce—'Love' Telegram Called a Joke.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Marjorie Rambeau, who is starring in a play called "The Night Duel," took the witness stand in Supreme Court yesterday and tried to convince Justice Wasservogel and a jury that there was nothing improper in an actress having her stage director as the man who gives her cues in the apartment at 3 o'clock in the morning to help her rehearse a part in a play.

William Kevitt Manton, actor, whose wife is suing him for divorce, naming Miss Rambeau as co-defendant, was the man whom Miss Rambeau testified she had hired to help her rehearse a difficult part in the play "Antonio" last season. Three Physicians Declare Tennis Star Is Not in Physical Condition.

MONT CARLO, Feb. 26.—Suzanne Lenglen is not in fit physical condition to play strenuous tennis before the French championships in June. This announcement was made today after a consultation by three physicians.

Sandler brought out that Miss Rambeau had been served with a summons in an alienation action begun by Mrs. Manton, but that no complaint ever had been served.

He tried to develop also that Miss Rambeau had been asked to give $100,000 not to have the action pressed, but was prevented from continuing that line of questioning when he could not produce the original of a letter Miss Rambeau said she had received from Lee.

Manton, who preceded Miss Rambeau on the stand, told a story that agreed with her version. He declared that, while he considered himself Miss Rambeau's equal in culture and refinement, as far as artistic ability was concerned, they were as far apart as the poles.

He said he did not regard it as singular when Miss Rambeau sent him word to come to her apartment at 1:30 o'clock in the morning.

Denying misconduct at any time, Manton said he still loved his wife and that she "is undoubtedly the most attractive woman in the world."

ATHLETIC SOCIETY FAILS
Max Cohn, head of the National Athletic Association, 2014 North Sixth street, testified before Reference Cotes yesterday that lack of public interest in physical culture resulted in his bankruptcy with liabilities of $421.18 and assets amounting to $332.

Cohn said the National Association at one time had 200 customers, but they later lost interest and patronage dwindled until the organization was impossible.

The organization was started by Cohn and two other men in 1922. One of his partners invested $5000 in the association and later withdrew. Cohn said he invested no money in the project, but received a third interest for his services.

Fire in Morrison Hotel Chute.

CONDUIT EXPLOSION SHAKES BUILDINGS

Four Manhole Covers Blown Into Air in Vicinity of Ninth and Spruce Streets.

An explosion in an underground conduit of the Union Electric Light & Power Co. on Ninth street, between Spruce street and Clark avenue, at 4:59 a. m. today, blew four manhole covers in the air, shook buildings in the vicinity, and resulted in disrupted power service to several plants served by the lines.

The fourth explosion of its character in the downtown area in recent months, it was the first to occur at night, with the result that for an hour or more lights flickered in downtown buildings, all of which are served by one system. Union Electric officials explained that the flickerings were caused by "shorts" in the cables as the insulations were burned through by the fire that followed the explosion.

Both lighting and power current users in the block of the explosion were without service this morning. The principal users affected being the tenants of the Von Hoffmann Building, 105 South ninth street, which houses the Von Hoffmann Press, four other printing concerns and a type composition company. It was expected service would be restored sometime today.

As in previous conduit explosions, the cause is not ascertained for a day or two, and then only approximately. One theory is that sewer gas, forcing its way into the conduit, is the explosive force. Another is that the heavy low-voltage wires generate a static electricity, which explodes the dust and other atmospheric particles in the conduit.

Schumann-Heink, at 64, Makes Re-Debut in Opera

Sings Wagnerian Role at Metropolitan and as Curtain Falls, Crowd Pushes Forward Almost to Orchestra to Applaud.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Mme. Schumann-Heink sang yesterday afternoon in "Das Rheingold" at the Metropolitan Opera House.

Unless memory can span a quarter century or more, one might not have understood why the urbane Scotti went backstage as the big gold curtains came down or why the ordinarily plegmatic Wagnerian audience pushed down into the pit of the orchestra—almost into the laps of the first violins—to applaud.

Even then, Madame demurred at taking the encore alone. One large, capable hand pulled the red-wigged Leubenthal after her; and the rest of the cast, for the first dozen bows before the curtain.

Finally, she stood there alone, in the low veil and gray gown of Erida, the Spirit of Mother Earth, her broad face smiling, and her chunky figure looking for all the world as solid and long lasting as the role she sang.

So she appeared, said Scotti, and Gatti-Casazza, when last she sang at the Metropolitan in the same role nine years ago, and before that during all those years after 1878, when she made her debut.

Re-Debut at 64.

Yesterday afternoon was the occasion for a sort of re-debut in opera of the Madame of the lovely contralto voice. She is 64 years old. Next year will be her fiftieth as a professional singer. Her eight children—except for the one who died in a German submarine in the war—have been raised to maturity, until, as she confided yesterday, her youngest, Ferdinand, "is the movies; he is not Gloria Swanson."

It was a short role that she sang. She was on the stage scarcely 10 minutes and then only the vaguest outline of her could be seen. A misty blue light shaded that part of the fourth and last scene when she rose through a trap door mingling with the rocks and shadows. For 10 minutes or more the entire audience of 4000 had been straining forward in anticipation of the voice which is such a part of the memories of the old opera house. It came and the low notes were rich and full:

"Weiche Wasser, Weiche Wasser, das Ringe flucht!"
"Voice as It Used to Be."
Rigid, on tiptoes or on the edges of chairs, the audience listened. Perhaps some of her high notes weren't quite so flute-like as they used to be; but it isn't for nothing many of her other hearers to say. Those who remember her voice as it was 20 years or more ago, said it was just the same. And the veriest dolt could appreciate the quality of those long, low notes coming from the blue shadows.

As Conductor Arthur Bodansky struck out with his long arms, finale, the opera ended and the audience clapped politely, then hunted for its coats. But as the cast came out for its first bow, tugging Madame, as bashful at taking the spotlight as if she were a child, the applause grew.

Behind the big curtain there was more than the usual running about. Half of the cast was keeping an eye on Madame, to be certain she didn't elude a single curtain call.

"I gave them the Schumann-Heink wink," said Madame, the glister of her eyes only half-belling the broad smile of her lips. And then:

"Was I good enough? I was trembling so that I thought I could not sing."
"Like a Benevolent Hausfrau."
Madame kissed and was kissed many times. She seemed a benevolent German hausfrau, miraculously transplanted to an alien atmosphere for an instant, but it was equally evident that nowhere did she feel more at home or happy.

Scotti, who had been repeating as if in a dream: "We started together here almost at the same time," came toward her. The last question of recommending impeachment before the end of next week.

Representatives Sumners (Dem.) of Texas, and Hervey (Rep.) of Maine, have announced that they will argue the case. Like Boies, they are both in favor of impeachment, and were members of the subcommittee of which Boies was chairman, which investigated Judge English's conduct last year before recommending that he be impeached. While all sessions of the Judiciary Committee have been behind closed doors, it is understood that none of the 21 members has so far announced an intention to argue against impeachment.

It appears likely that before the committee reached a vote, at least six who were members of the investigating committee of seven, will make arguments in favor of recommending impeachment. The attitude of the seventh member, Representative Weller (Dem.) of New York, is not known. An effort by Chairman Graham to expedite the proceedings by holding afternoon sessions was blocked yesterday on the floor of the House by Representative King (Rep.) of Illinois, who opposed Graham's request for unanimous consent.

200 FIREMEN CALLED TO NORTH SIDE BLAZES

High Wind Increases Danger at Lumber Warehouse and Bottling Plant.

More than 200 firemen of 44 engine companies were called out early today to protect property in two North Side industrial districts endangered by fire and high wind.

One blaze was discovered at 1:30 o'clock in a lumber warehouse of the Christmann Veneer Co. Second and Angelo streets, and threatened adjoining buildings for two hours. Firemen estimated the property loss at $15,000.

The second fire was at the Baskowitz Bottling Co. Second street and Bremen avenue. The alarm was sounded in at 2 o'clock and the blaze was extinguished after a $6000 loss. The origin of neither fire was determined.

FURTHER DELAY IN ACTION

ON THE JUDGE ENGLISH CASE

House Committee Takes Recess and Vote Is Not Expected Before End of Next Week.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—At the end of today's session of the House Judiciary Committee, Representative Boies (Rep.) of Iowa, argued for the impeachment of Federal Judge English, of East St. Louis, and had not finished. The committee recessed until Tuesday morning, and it was apparent that it would not reach a vote on the question of recommending impeachment before the end of next week.

Representatives Sumners (Dem.) of Texas, and Hervey (Rep.) of Maine, have announced that they will argue the case. Like Boies, they are both in favor of impeachment, and were members of the subcommittee of which Boies was chairman, which investigated Judge English's conduct last year before recommending that he be impeached. RAIDERS SEIZE BIG STILL AND TAKE FIVE PRISONERS

Federal prohibition agents raided a two-story brick garage in the rear of 1104 Madison street, shortly before noon today, and seized a large still with an estimated daily capacity of 200 gallons of alcohol, which was in operation at the time. Five men were arrested, including Charles A. Smith, an electrical contractor of that address, who maintains an office in a part of the garage. He admitted he rented the property from the owner, and declared he had sublet the part used as a distillery to other men, and did not know of the still. A vat containing 20,000 gallons of raisin mash was found together with cans containing 70 gallons of alcohol, apparently a recent product of the still. Others arrested were Sam Lagrasso, 1510 North Seventh street; James Zerell of 1010 North Seventh street, who was in Smith's office; Earl Burnett, a stevedore of Smith, and George Costello of 2013 North Ninth street, who said he came to call on Burnett. Smith arrived while the agents were searching the garage.

WOMAN ACCUSER IS WITNESS AT TRIAL OF ARMY CHAPLAIN

Public Barred From Courtroom Hearing of Capt. Clamptt on Charges of Misconduct.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 26.—Courtroom proceedings against Capt. Orville L. Clamptt, United States army chaplain and Baptist minister, have been begun at the Presidio with testimony of Miss Lucille Swallow, 22 years old, of Lawrence, Kan.

Clamptt, married and the father of two children, made a general denial of the charges yesterday. The defense claims it has in its possession letters written by Miss Swallow to Clamptt, demanding money or threatening exposure of their alleged relations.

While the public was barred from the trial it was disclosed that the charges took their third form. Alleged intimacy with Miss Swallow between Jan. 1 and March 25, 1935. 2. Alleged attempts on five subsequent occasions to induce her to have an operation. 3. The giving of $30 to the girl for a physician's fee.

Lieut. Fred K. Weinmberger, representing Clamptt, registered a strong protest against hearing the public from the trial, as did Col. W. A. Covington, also aiding the accused chaplain.

Judge-Advocate Olivetti insisted, however, that the public should be barred because of the nature of the testimony.

AUTOPSY AFTER MAN'S DEATH

Walter Clark Was Struck by Auto Oct. 20 Last.

A coroner's autopsy will be held in an effort to determine whether an automobile accident, Oct. 20, caused the death at city hospital last midnight of Walter Clark, 60 years old, a painter, of 3609A Evans avenue. He succumbed to a brain injury.

Clark had been struck at Theresa avenue and Washington boulevard by a car driven by Sherman Ballentine of 1901 East Grand avenue, and was treated at city hospital for a skull fracture and abrasion of the scalp, later being discharged. He was taken back to the hospital Jan. 30, remaining there until his death.

REED OF MISSOURI REBUKES DAWES FOR USE OF GAVEL

Points Finger at Vice-President and Declares He Cannot Cut Off Rights of Senators.

ROBINSON DEFENDS ACTION OF DAWES

Controversy Due to Shutting Off of Blease, Who Wanted to Appeal Against Ruling.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The methods of Vice President Dawes as presiding officer of the Senate have been criticized again, and this time, with Dawes making no answer, a Democrat has come to his defense.

The criticism came from Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, who, shaking his finger at the Vice President, yesterday notified him that the gavel would not be used in this Senate to cut off the rights of Senators. The Missouri senator referred to a criticism of the day before, when Senator Blease, Democrat of South Carolina, sought to appeal from a decision of the chair ruling out of order his motion that the Senate reject the conference report on the tax bill.

Senator Reed contended that Dawes had oversteered through another motion and had shut off Blease. The Vice President listened closely to the criticism but made no reply.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic floor leader, declared, however, that there was not the slightest reason for denouncing the chair for the use of the gavel yesterday. He maintained that the Vice President had been correct in his ruling.

The situation was explained by Senator Blease, who said the Vice President evidently thought he already had made his appeal, but as a matter of fact he added, the chair did not give me time to appeal.

Senator Reed, who threatened to "speak" the Vice President a year ago after his lecture concerning Senate rules, spoke with feeling yesterday and when he finished he said that was all he would say about it at this time.

FUNERAL OF POLISH PRELATE

Services in New York for Archbishop Cieplak.
By The Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—A pontifical funeral mass for Archbishop John Cieplak, Metropolitan of Vilna, Poland, who died Feb. 17, at Passaic, N. J., was celebrated today at St. Patrick's Cathedral, attended by 3000 mourners. Bishop Joseph Plajens of Detroit was the celebrant.

Cardinal Hayes, attended by Monsignors Wenba of Milwaukee, Bana of Chicago and Kacprzik of Erie, Pa., sat near the altar. Others attending were John Ciechanowski, Polish Minister at Washington; Dr. Sylvester Gruszka, Polish Consul-General at New York; Mayor James L. Walker and Major-General Haskell, who represented Gov. Smith. Many of the mourners came in special trains from the Middle West and New England. Music was furnished by singers from the Metropolitan Opera Company. Sitting behind the altar, alone and weeping, was Jan Grzegorz Dalecki, who for more than 30 years had served the Archbishop as personal servant. After the mass the body, escorted by a guard of honor composed of Polish war veterans in uniform, was taken to the steamship Olympic for burial in his native land.

$2,000,000 Brewery Padlocked.
CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—Property valued at $2,000,000 went under the padlock when Federal Judge Adam C. Coffey issued a permanent injunction closing the Troy Ice and Beverage Co., formerly the Garden City Brewing Co., for one year. The brewery is said to have been one of a string operated by Terry Drugan and Frank Yake, beer barons.

"Dress Well and Succeed" has often been proclaimed. St. Louis men have never had a better opportunity to carry out this policy. These two-trouser suits at $35.00 certainly give a man that smart appearance so much to be desired.

We know the good appearance of these suits is beyond question. We are just as certain of the quality and value as evidenced by the fact that we invite any dissatisfied purchaser to bring back his suit or topcoat to be exchanged for a new one or the return of his money.

STEAMER TRAFFIC SEASON

ON MISSISSIPPI REOPENED

The steel hull steamer Cape Girardeau of the Eagle Packet Line, docked here yesterday with 120 passengers and a cargo of 400,000 pounds of sugar and 67,500 pounds of Brazilian coffee.

The Cape Girardeau left Cairo, southbound, Feb. 5, reached New Orleans on Feb. 13 and began the return trip four days later. Passengers were enabled to enjoy the scenery in comfort by a glass enclosure built around the second deck.

The packet will begin regular freight and passenger service between St. Louis and Cape Girardeau next Tuesday, when the Natchez will resume its trips up the Illinois River.

ROOSEVELT'S SISTER ALMOST BLIND, TO UNDERGO OPERATION
Mrs. Douglas Robinson Led to Platform to Address Group Yesterday at Brother's Memorial.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Mrs. Douglas Robinson, a sister of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, who has been almost totally blind for the last five weeks, will undergo an operation on her eyes next Thursday at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore.

John R. Moore, who has had two previous eye operations. About five weeks ago, she awoke from a short sleep to find her vision blurred. Attempting to deliver an address the same evening, she found she was unable to see her audience. It was discovered that she had cataracts. Though it is now said she can see only a few inches, she has continued her activities, and yesterday was led to the platform to address a group of school teachers at the Roosevelt school, where her brother was born and died. She said her cataracts are not dangerous. She told her audience she could not see their faces.

State Supreme Court Reverses a Federal Ruling in Case Involving a Technical Error.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 26.—
Division No. 2 of the State Supreme court today reversed a federal court ruling that it would not reverse a conviction in a criminal case on the mere technical ground that the record of the trial failed to show entries of the formal arrangement and plea of the defendant. In former years this has fostered technical appeals, considered sufficient ground for reversal of a conviction.

The ruling was contained in an opinion by Judge R. F. Walker, affirming the conviction and 30-year prison sentence of W. M. Robinson of Butler County, for murder of John Carter at Oglesville on Nov. 24, 1933.

The Attorney General, in briefing the case for the State, called attention to the omissions, but contended the error was not sufficient to warrant disturbing the verdict.

"There was a time when it was held that the presence of a man in the courtroom was necessary; joined; nothing to try, and in such cases a conviction would be as said," Judge Walker wrote. "The theory, devoid of semblance of merit, has been abandoned and the defendant is free. The defendant went to trial without objection and contested the case made by the State as fully and effectively as if he had not been formally arraigned."

LEON DAUDET'S APPEAL DENIED

PARIS, Dec. 26.—The court of Cassation has refused the appeal of Leon Daudet, novelist and dramatist, who had been sentenced to 15 years for having written the chauffeur's charge of which Paul M. Daudet's 14-year-old son was found in a living condition in November, 1923.

The court which found M. Daudet guilty of slander, ordered him to furnish a bond for his imprisonment and to pay the payment of heavy damages, which the President of the Republic now can save, if the opportunity

EX EMPLOYE OF STEEL MILL TO MAKE DEBUT AS TENOR

Pittsburghers Who Financed Education to Attend Lewis Cantoni's Concert in New York.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 26.—Like the Kansas City friends of Marion

Talley, whose operatic debut took New York by storm, a party of Pittsburghers led by Congressman Clyde M. Kelly plan to go to New York on April 3, when Lewis Cantoni, a former apprentice in the steel mills of Pittsburgh, makes his first appearance as a tenor soloist.

Cantoni, who has been impressed the friends of the Carnegie Steel Co. who were so attracted by his voice that they arranged for his development. That was 19 years ago, Cantoni has been studying in Chicago and New York.

DECLINE IN FUND TO BE APPORTIONED TO SCHOOLS

Estimate of $2,537,866 for Next August $125,000 Less Than Total Last Year.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 26.—The school fund that will be available next August for apportionment by the State to the public school districts of Missouri will be approximately $125,000 less than the $3,219,161 that was apportioned to the school districts last August, State Superintendent of Schools Lee states in a letter he is sending to all county school superintendents.

Under the law, one-third of the general revenue received by the State is set aside for apportionment to the public school districts. The apportionment is on a basis of a day's attendance by pupils during the previous school year, and the number of teachers employed by a district. Last year the apportionment amounted to eight cents a day for each pupil.

The State Auditor estimated the amount of revenue available for public schools would total $3,219,161 for August. From this is deducted $187,000 for interest on school certificates and $600,000 in appropriations to the Legislature from the school fund for various special school aid purposes. This leaves an estimated balance of $1,432,161 for apportionment next August.

MAN EJECTED FROM TRAIN SUES RAILROAD FOR $2500

Alleging that he caught a cold after having been ejected from a train, two miles from the nearest town, and that he had to wait in the snow three hours before he could get another train, Charles C. Cooper of East St. Louis filed suit in the City Court at East St. Louis yesterday for $2,500. Damages claimed the Illinois Central Railroad, Cooper states in his petition that on New Year's day he bought a ticket for East St. Louis in Terre Haute, Ind., and boarded the train that was pointed out to him by a friend. When he offered the conductor his ticket he was told the train did not stop at East St. Louis and his ticket was refused. He states that he was ejected at a remote station two miles from East St. Louis.

FORMER PASTOR AND GIRL
HELD IN MANN ACT CASE

Philadelphia, Who Disappeared
With Choir Singer Eight Months Ago, Arrested in Los Angeles.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 26.—
Rev. Thomas H. Jones, once pastor of the St. Barnabas Protestant Episcopal Church of Philadelphia, has been arrested here charged with violation of the Mann act.
Miss Mildred Lever, formerly a choir singer at the church, is held as a material witness.

Federal officers say that they eloped to this city last June, making the trip by automobile and since have been living as man and wife. Jones was released under $5000 bail. The former pastor is 47 years old, and has a wife and one son. The girl is 19.

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 26.—The Rev. Thomas Hubert Jones was rector of St. Barnabas Protestant Episcopal Church here until his disappearance about eight months ago. Several months after he disappeared a warrant was issued for his arrest charging misappropriation of funds entrusted to him by James Hill, an aged parishioner, for the benefit of the latter's daughter.

Tin Plate Plant Fire Loss $250,000.
PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 26.—A portion of the plant of the Mc-Keesport Tin Plate Co. at Port Vue, near here, was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin early today. The loss was estimated at $250,000. The grease shop, the carpenter shop and a section of the box factory, all one-story brick buildings, were swept by the flames.

PIMPLES LASTED
OVER A YEAR

Hard and Red, Face Disfigured. Cuticura Heals.

"My trouble began from using cheap soap. My face broke out with pimples that at first were large and soft, but later became small, hard and red. They scaled over and itched and burned causing me to scratch. Scratching caused eruptions and my face was so disfigured that I was ashamed to go out. The trouble lasted over a year.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. It helped me so I purchased more and in five weeks I was healed." (Signed)
Miss Anna Dennis, 3510 Lowell

Verdict for Defendants in Alleged False Arrest Suit

Mrs. Margaret Goodpaster Had Sought $25,000 Damages From Hotel Association.

The false arrest suit of Mrs. Margaret Goodpaster, of 2006 Louisiana avenue, for $25,000 damages, against Mrs. Bertha Bruening, president of the Catholic Women's Hotel Association, and the association itself, was decided in favor of defendants by a jury in Circuit Judge Roskopf's court yesterday.

The testimony showed that Mrs. Bruening, acting on authority of the house committee, had discharged Mrs. Goodpaster as manager of the association's hotel at 427 Maryland avenue, but Mrs. Goodpaster refused to leave. It was contended, Mrs. Bruening asserted that the plaintiff made threats against her which resulted in the police being called in Oct. 8, 1923, and Mrs. Goodpaster was taken to the Newstead Avenue Police Station on a peace disturbance charge.

At the same time Mrs. Goodpaster cross-charged Mrs. Bruening and both women were detained several hours until they could give bond. Mrs. Goodpaster contended that there was no justification for her arrest and that she was humiliated by it.

Scott Fails to Answer Wife's Suit.

DETROIT, Feb. 26.—Default papers have been filed by attorneys for Congressman Frank D. Scott of Alpena in the suit for divorce brought against him Feb. 2 by Mrs. Edna James Scott. As no answer has been filed, the case will be a pro-confesso action. A suit for divorce filed by Representative Scott and a crossbill by his wife were dismissed after a sensational trial in Alpena last August.

Convict's Death Not Due to Beatings

By the Associated Press.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 26.—The State Board of Administration, in a report, declares that Hoote Taylor, convict, died from natural causes at Flat Top mine camp Nov. 21. Brandon concurred in the findings that death was not from any mistreatment, as the convict's father had charged in a demand that the body be exhumed and examined.

Members at last night's meeting of the Missouri Historical Society at Jefferson Memorial were able to see for themselves why a quarter is sometimes called "two bits" now America got its name, and that most of the first copy of the Missouri Constitution was written on pink letter paper.

The official record of the first constitutional convention, in 215 manuscripts, exhibited last night, was deposited with the society last week by the grandchildren of William Grimes Pettus, secretary of the convention. It covers every day from June 12 to July 19, 1820, in a large room and two smaller ones for which the proprietor of the Mansion House, Third and Vine streets, was paid $15 a week.

Many of the manuscripts are signed on the letter paper of pink color although Pettus used the parchment for the draft which was signed by the delegates, making the transcription in one night and so carefully that the officer who read it remarked, "I never saw such a paper as this. There is not a crossed nor an 'u' undotted in the whole document."

The financial secretary of the convention, the Hon. John C. W. Caldwell, in a letter addressed to a printer, "Doubts have arisen in the minds of some whether the convention of right can draw on the funds of the Treasury. They wish to understand that it is probable that the payment will be delayed until the State Legislature can make provision therefor."

First Capital Cost $20,000. Among the papers is a resolution that the permanent seat of the government shall be at the town of St. Louis until the first day of October, 1820, provided that there shall be built without expense to the State a State House to be worth at least $20,000, and in like manner a State prison. The capital actually built at Jefferson City in 1820 was a third less, pretentious than the one proposed for St. Louis at St. Louis expense. It cost the Legislature less than $20,000.

Abstracts sent to the convention by Gen. William Clark, last territorial governor, gave the number of free white men in St. Louis County (then including the town of St. Louis) in 1814 as 2149 and in 1817 as 4725. Howard Crosby was a close second with 2184 in 1817. The St. Louis total

Historical Society Views First Copy of Missouri Constitution Written on Pink Note Paper

Origin of "Two Bits" Is Explained by the Spanish Dollar Hacked Into Four Pieces to Make Change.

Members at last night's meeting of the Missouri Historical Society at Jefferson Memorial were able to see for themselves why quarters are sometimes called "two bits." America got its name, and that most of the first copy of the Missouri Constitution was written on pink letter paper.

The official record of the first constitutional convention, in 215 manuscripts, exhibited last night, was deposited with the society last week by the grandchildren of William Grimes Pettus, secretary of the convention. It covers every detail of the sessions, which were held from June 12 to July 19, 1820, in a large room and two smaller ones for which the proprietor of the Mansion House, Third and Vine streets, was paid $50 a week.

Many of the manuscripts are written on the letter paper of pink color, although Pettus used the parchment for the draft which was signed by the delegates, making the transcription in one night and so carefully that the officer who read it remarked, "I never saw such a paper as this. There is not a crossed nor an 'i' undotted in the whole document."

The final uncertainty of the building commonwealth is telling in one letter addressed to a sister: "Doubts have arisen in the minds of some whether the convention of right can draw on the funds of the Territory. They each understood that it is probable that the payment will be deferred until the State Legislature can make provision therefor."

First Capital Cost $20,000.
Among the papers is a resolution that the permanent seat of Government shall be at the town of St. Louis until the first day of October, 1820, provided that there shall be built without expense to the State a State House to be worth at least $20,000, and in like manner a State prison.

The capital, showing the city in 1820, was a third less, pretensions than the one proposed for St. Louis—St. Louis' expense. It cost the Legislature less than $20,000.

Abstracts sent to the convention by Gen. William Clark, last territorial governor, gave the number of free white men in St. Louis County (then including the "town of St. Louis") in 1814 as 2349 and in 1817 as 4725. Howard County was a close second with 2326 in 1817. The St. Louis total population in 1820 was listed in the first city directory, also shown last night, as 5500, although only 750 names were listed, as the printer did not bother to make a house-to-house canvass.

The origin of "two bits" and "Pieces of Eight" was exemplified in a Spanish dollar unearthed by a plow in St. Mary's, Mo. The dollar had been cut in four pieces. It was customary to hack a dollar into eight such bits to make change. A quarter was two bits, a half-dollar was four, and 75 cents was six.

How America Got Its Name.
The first suggestion that "America" be used as a name for the New World was shown in an extremely rare textbook published in 1807. "But now the parts have been more extensively explored and another fourth part has been discovered by Americus Vesputius (as will appear from what follows), wherefore I do not see what is rightly to be done but to call the new world America, i. e., the land of Americus, after its discoverer Americus."

This "Cosmographie Introduction" was written in Latin by Martin Waldseemüller, the newly discovered geography at the College of Saint-Die in Lorraine, and printed by "that most remarkable man" (the text naively put it), Johannes Grueniger, publisher of 250 other works sought by the antiquarian. It gives an account of the four voyages of Vesputius only 10 years after he made the first, and just 15 years after the vindication of that intellectual rebel, Christopher Columbus, diagrams the world as round and not, as his conservative enemies maintained, flat.

Other exhibits included a "chain book," printed in 1628 and bound in wooden backs with a chain to secure it from theft; a Nuremberg chronicle of the world, published in 1493, and a map dated 1688, usually said to be the first showing of the United States in a printed work. It was a third less, pretensions than the one proposed for St. Louis—St. Louis' expense. It cost the Legislature less than $20,000.

REALTY DEALERS URGE AMENDMENT OF ZONING BILL

Lack of Provision for Compensating Property Owners Declared to Be Fatal Defect of Ordinance.

OTHER OBJECTIONS TO MEASURE RAISED

Legislative Committee of Board of Aldermen Considers Further Hearings Before Making Report.

Action by the Legislative Committee of the Board of Aldermen upon the proposed zoning ordinance, has been deferred until next week or later, following the presentation, by the Real Estate Exchange Zoning Committee, of a list of requested amendments.

Alderman Ellers, who presided at a hearing held last night for the real estate men, said the committee might decide to hold another hearing before completing its report.

The Zoning Committee of the Real Estate Exchange has insisted, in the past discussions of the subject, that provisions for compensating property owners, for restrictions placed on the use of their property, must be included in the ordinance. Otherwise, the real estate men have argued, the ordinance will be overturned by the State Supreme Court as unconstitutional. The Supreme Court overthrew the previous zoning law largely because it lacked a compensation clause.

View of Plan Commission.
Against this, the City Plan Commission and other backers of the proposed bill have argued that the Supreme Court, which reached its previous decision by a 4 to 3 vote, is likely to change its attitude and get in line with the higher courts of other states, which have upheld zoning legislation. Also, they have argued, compensation would be utterly impracticable, as it would require the city to determine the value of property before zoning, a police power measure to a proceeding under the right of eminent domain.

Minneapolis based its zoning law on the right of eminent domain, and the result, it is asserted by those supporting the proposed ordinance here, has been to complicate titles to realty, and to make the Minneapolis zone boundaries rigid and the provisions of the law inflexible.

The Proposed Amendments.
The Zoning Committee of the Real Estate Exchange, in its list of proposed amendments, submitted last night, did not include any definite compensation clause. But it said:

"We protest again, both as a matter of law and sound business, that provision should be made for compensating property owners who suffer material damage by reason of the restrictions imposed by the ordinance.

Unfortunately the proposed ordinance was drawn up under the impossible to proceed under our charter to ascertain damages and assess benefits. It would zone the entire city at the same time. Our city charter requires that, where an ordinance contemplates the appropriation of rights or easements for public use, the City Council must file the condemnation suit not later than six months after such ordinance is effective, and must set forth in his petition a description of the property and the estate or interest therein, in each instance, which the city would appropriate or damage.

New Method Suggested.
"We consider it impossible within six months to obtain the information necessary to thus condemn all the property in the city. The only feasible method is either to zone by separate districts, each small enough to permit of a charter requirement being complied with, or to amend the present charter so as to eliminate the six months' time limitation, and give ample time within which to proceed as to the whole city by one ordinance and in one suit. In either case the present ordinance should be abandoned."

O. J. McCawley and Walter Sheehan, who represented the real estate men's committee, did not argue the matter of compensation. Frank H. Gerhart, a real estate man not a member of the committee, argued that compensation was financially out of the question, as it would run into the millions. He would be too great a burden to assume even as bonded indebtedness. He was arguing against the passage of any zoning legislation whatever, while the real estate men's committee is in favor of it.

Prussia Takes Over French Area.
BERLIN, Feb. 26.—The Prussian State Council has sanctioned the exchange of a narrow uninhabited strip of territory in the Saarburg district for the French territory of Ansbach, in the Moselle department, as authorized by the Franco-German agreement of Aug. 14, 1925. The border populations welcome the exchange.

"THE INTIMATE PAPERS OF COL. HOUSE" Col. House Loses Temper in Conference With Spring-Rice, British Ambassador

Correspondence With Sir Edward Grey on Blockade Policy—Texan Conceives Way to Help Allies by Having U. S. Demand a Peace.

As has been told in preceding chapters, Col. House, unofficially representing President Wilson, has been trying to effect a peace between the warring Allies and Central Powers. The installment yesterday explained a new project of the Texan, a plan for the United States to demand a cessation of hostilities, and pursuant to this an offer was made to Sir Edward Grey of Great Britain.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN.

"I had a twenty-five-page autograph letter from Walter Page," recorded Col. House some weeks later. "He is in one of his most pessimistic moods. The trouble with Page is that he sees but one side of the question. He is correct in thinking that the State Department does not couch its notes in the best diplomatic language."

But Page overlooks the fact that there is just as much irritation here caused by the British propaganda as they feel over there. In the one instance it is a question of a direct tone with a kindly purpose, and in the other, a kindly tone with no kindly intention. We have been exceedingly patient with Great Britain and have done as much as any neutral nation could to aid her, without actually entering the war on her side. On the other hand, the British have gone as far as they possibly could in violating neutral rights, although they have done it in the most courteous way.

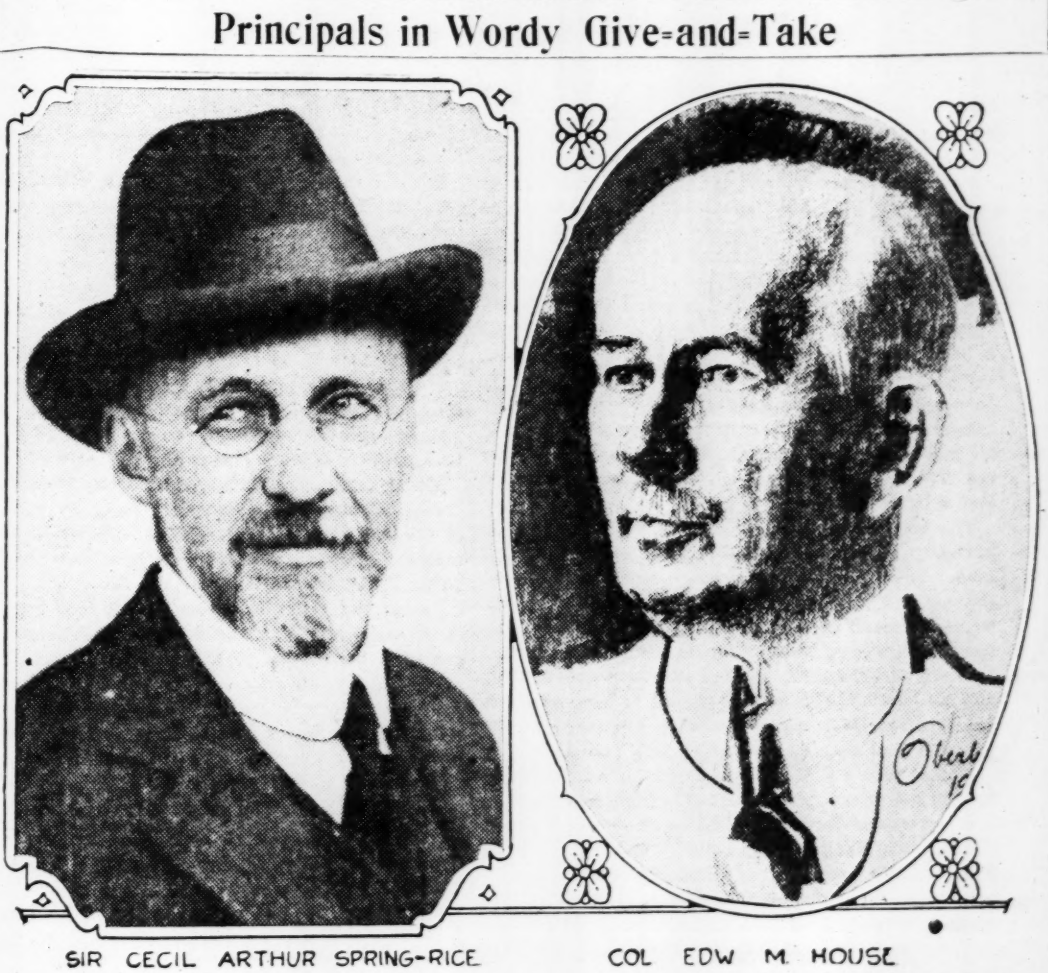

"Oct. 4, 1915: I had arranged with the British Ambassador," wrote House, "to meet him at Bill Phillips' home. I dismissed the White House car a block from Phillips' home, and he came to meet me. I began to discuss the note, but found the Ambassador in one of his highly nervous states. He started to talk in a very disagreeable way of the United States. Among other things, he said, 'I know that the record would always stand that when the laws of God and man were violated, there came no protest from us, but that when our oil and copper shipments were blocked with a most vigorous protest came.'"

British Stand on Blockade.
"In discussing the contents of the note which we purpose sending to Great Britain," he said, "no matter how low our tone, we will admit the principle of blockade as your Government wishes to interpret it. If we acquiesced, it would be all to the advantage of Germany, whom you seem to favor. Germany has neutral ports like Malmo and Copenhagen which are just as much German as Bremen or Hamburg, but Great Britain has done, and the rule you wish to have, is to ask us to prevent our enemies' blockade our coasts. On the other hand, no amount of blockade which Great Britain could bring to bear would shut off Germany."

"I made the suggestion of arbitration and asked him to make it to his Government. I did not like the tenor of his talk and, as is my custom, became more and more silent. In the course of the conversation he said, 'I am a long rest at Dublin. N. H. Wilson and Sir William Terrell were sent by the Foreign Office to help. In 1914, when the war burst forth, Spring-Rice was in London, and should have been kept there. Washington was no place for a nervous and delicate Ambassador. It was unfair to him and unfair to us. He is a cultivated, high-minded and scholarly gentleman and when not in the line of the very best type of British diplomat.'"

U. S. Policy Aids Berlin, Grey Says.
Sir Edward Grey to Col. House: 23 Eccleston Square, London, Nov. 11, 1915.

Dear Col. House: I do not know what our reply will be to your note about blockade and contraband. The note is before our legal advisers. My feeling in reading it was that if we admitted all its contentions it would be tantamount to admitting that, under modern conditions, we could not prevent Germany from trading, at any rate through neutral ports, as freely in time of war as in time of peace and that we must either continue the difference of opinion with your Government or give up definitely and openly any attempt to stop goods

"At this point," records Col. House, "I lost my temper and told him (Spring-Rice) I regarded his remarks as an insult. I denied that he represented either his chief or his Government and declared that his views were not my views and I knew of no official anywhere who was serving his country so badly as himself."

length to which I was willing to go in dealing with him, he became apologetic and asked me to forgive him. His feelings, he said, were very much wrought up by the bad news he had received from home, and because of the anxiety he felt regarding last night's raid. I replied that he should be able to look at public affairs quite apart from his private interests. And as to my discussing blockade with him, he must know how necessary it was in my work to do this, and that I intended to do this no matter how much feeling he might have upon the subject.

"He again asked me to forgive him and to continue our good relations. He insisted that he regarded me as a friend and very much appreciated my advice and help. He spoke of the incident in the highest terms and said he wished to God Great Britain had such a man directing her destinies, since there was no one in the world to compare with him."

Row Patched Up.
"The upshot of it was that, while he said things derogatory to the United States and praised the President and me, I praised Great Britain and spoke in a derogatory way of him. I accepted his apologies and we parted amicably. He went immediately to the State Department and told the incident to Phillips. Phillips came to see me and said the Ambassador was much disturbed and asked him to come and talk with me about it. I told Phillips to please reassure Sir Cecil and told him I was very sorry it had happened and had forgotten it, and that everything would continue between us as usual as far as I was concerned."

"It is due Sir Cecil to say, in explanation of many of his moods and actions, that he was sent over as Ambassador in 1913 and was so ill when he came that he could not perform his duties at first. He took a long rest at Dublin. N. H. Wilson and Sir William Terrell were sent by the Foreign Office to help. In 1914, when the war burst forth, Spring-Rice was in London, and should have been kept there. Washington was no place for a nervous and delicate Ambassador. It was unfair to him and unfair to us. going to and from Germany through neutral ports. The friction and trouble that we have over this matter are so great that I have often wished, in despair, to give it up, but that would go near to abandoning all chance of preventing Germany from being successful.

After 15 months of practical experience of the use of modern conditions I am convinced that the real question is not one of legal niceties about contraband and other things, but whether we are to do what we are doing, or nothing at all. The contents of your Government would restrict our operations in such a way that Germany could evade them wholesale, and they would be mere paper rights, quite useless in practice. I cannot help feeling that, if we had done all the things that Germany has done in the war, and if we had instigated, as Germans have apparently instigated, crime after crime against the United States, that we would have pushed resentment home against us more than it has done against Germany.

As it is, it looks as if the United States might now strike the weapon of sea power out of our hands, and thereby insure a German victory. Yours sincerely, E. GREY.

Germany Seems to Be Winning.
On Oct. 1 Ambassador Gerard wrote: "Of course I may be affected by the surroundings, but it seems to me Germany is winning this war."

On Nov. 2, "Germany seems to be winning this war," he wrote. "Efforts to starve her out will not succeed. . . . The military are careless of public opinion of neutrals; they say they are winning and do not need good opinion. I am really afraid of war against us after this war—if Germany wins."

On Nov. 16: "The German people are still absolutely, and probably justifiably, confident in the results of the war."

The United States could not risk a German victory, House insisted, nor could our Government look forward to an indefinite quarrel with both belligerent groups, with the Germans over submarine "accidents," plots and propaganda; with the allies over their restrictions upon trade. "Shall we ever get out of this labyrinth?" wrote the Colonel. "The said he had never been sure that we ought not to take part in the conflict, and, if it seemed evident that Germany and her military ideas were to win, the obligation upon us was greater than ever."

The casual remark encouraged House to develop his idea of a positive policy. A few weeks later Wilson came to New York and the Colonel laid it before him.

PLAN TO EXPEDITE CONDEMNATION OF PRIVATE PROPERTY

G. W. Senn, Chief Attorney for City, Proposes Operation of Municipal Title-Examining Department.

SUGGESTS STANDING BODY OF EXPERTS

Official Tells St. Louis Chapter of Civil Engineers New Methods Can Be Legalized by Board.

Operation of its own title-examining department by the city, provision for a standing, expert commission to handle all condemnation proceedings and general acceptance of the use of plats instead of involved written descriptions of property in condemnation suits are the only reforms that G. William Senn, chief condemnation attorney for the city, believes could be made to accelerate the slow task of acquiring private property for municipal improvements.

These things can be accomplished by ordinance and charter amendment, Senn made his recommendations and explained the process of his work before the St. Louis section of the American Society of Civil Engineers at luncheon at the City Club yesterday.

Pending in his department are about 100 condemnation proceedings, ranging from short neighborhood streets to the big Memorial Plaza project and the widening of important traffic arteries. These involve more than 2000 pieces of property and more than 12,000 owners who are defendants in the suits. Senn explained the process as follows:

The Board of Public Service originates an ordinance for condemnation, to be passed by the Board of Aldermen. The law department ascertains who must be made defendants in the suit by investigation of the title to property concerned through the one private concern the city relies on for this work, which takes two to five months, since the examiner puts private work ahead of the city's. Surveys follow.

Served With Personal Notice.
All defendants residing in Missouri must be served with personal notice of the suit, except that unknown owners, like nonresidents of the State, may be reached by publication of notice. Reaching owners out in the State through the Sheriff is a slow and difficult task, but sometimes these officials show initiative, like the Sheriff of Pulaski County, who found a man he was to serve was in Camden County but enticed him into Pulaski to accept service.

Defendants may ask for a jury hearing, otherwise the customary course of having three commissioners appointed by Circuit Court to assess benefits and damages is followed. Their proceedings are informal and, in the hands of busy business men, they sit only two hours three times a week, but average only about 100 sessions a year. If say 200 pieces of property are involved, the commission is likely to require a long time, and some projects, the proposed widening of St. Louis avenue west from Grand boulevard, for instance, have as many as 1600 defendants.

It would take one stenographer about 150 working days to draft the detailed report of the commissioners on, say, the Easton avenue widening, for submission to court. The city or defendants may file objections to the findings within 30 days after filing. The Court may set aside the commissioners' findings, but, in the case of benefit awards, may return the matter to the commission, although this is unusual. If the findings are set aside a new commission must begin all over again.

Work of Comptroller.
Next, the Comptroller has the laborious task of entering the findings in detail and informing the Aldermen of the appropriation required. Ninety days more are required for the appropriation ordinance before the city can begin execution of the physical work. To hasten this acquisition, the city may pay the amount of damages into court before final judgment, as in the Olive street widening, but that case is tied up by appeal of some property owners to the Supreme Court, to which the case finally was submitted May 4 last. Months can be consumed by court hearing of exceptions to a commission's findings.

"Publicity about the big bond issue projects," said Senn, "attracts property owners, their attorneys and real estate men to see how much of that $27,000,000 they

THE KAROLYI CASE AGAIN.

The Karolyi case just won't stay dead. It has hopped up again in the form of a resolution, introduced by Senator Wheeler of Montana, for a Senate investigation of the alleged activities of the Hungarian Minister to the United States in the exclusion of the Countess.

According to Wheeler's information, the Hungarian Minister employed a private detective agency to procure evidence of the Countess' connection with political organizations which our Government disapproves of. The agency got the evidence, but it was forged documents. Wheeler charges.

The Constitution and the laws adopted in accordance with it represent the will of the Mexican people. The Government acts in accordance with its obligations to enforce the Constitution and the laws. That may be admitted.

The project of the Constitution directly against the free exercise of religion and the freedom of religious teaching are undoubtedly oppressive. The confiscation of church property, which the constitution says must be vested in the nation, cannot be defended on any principle of justice. The limiting of religious ministry to Mexicans alone is at least a very narrow rule. The closing of all sectarian schools is oppressive and contrary to the principle of liberty.

President Calles' excuse is that the churches have been active in Mexican politics. But the churches can be out of politics without divesting them of all lands they have acquired and without restricting the freedom of the people in the matter of religion and religious teaching.

In reply to Mr. Gen. Sherman's address on "Our Treatment of the HAITIANS," the writer can satisfactorily state that he landed in Haiti on Aug. 4, 1915, and remained there till Dec. 1, 1915, and was, therefore, familiar with all the facts concerning the treatment of our little black brothers in the U. S. Marine Landing in Port-au-Prince on Aug. 4, 1915, under the leadership of Gen. Butler. We were met by thousands of natives who had been told by their leaders that we came to take their country away from them.

While there is so much talk about traffic regulations for public safety, why not do a few obvious things to make the streets safer? Why not, for instance, make the roadways on each side of avenues with parkways in the center one-way streets?

The laws with regard to religion in Mexico are in harmony with the laws with regard to property and land. Mexico as a nation wants to hold all its resources and it proceeds to confiscate and seize them without regard to the rights of persons or organizations which have been established previously by the Mexican Government. It has passed a confiscators and nationalizing Constitution and is proceeding to put it into effect, regardless of any wrong and oppression that may be worked by this policy.

ONE-MAN-OPPOSITION SMILEY.

Resistance to the Republican machine in St. Louis County, which long has ruled governmental affairs here with an iron hand, has dwindled from the big margin of voters in the memorable 1922 clean-up election, when several Democratic officials were chosen, till now it seems to center in One-Man Opposition Smiley.

Mexico may do this without interference so far as her own citizens are concerned. Doubtless most governments will protest against the actual wrongs done against their citizens, and rightfully so. But Mexico's course shows little regard for that decent respect for the opinion of mankind which lies at the foundation of national wisdom. If Mexico, by oppression and injustice through its Constitution and laws and governmental action, forfeits general respect and creates distrust and hostility, she will have only herself to blame. Her course does not foster good will and peace.

Our Departed Great Men.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I WAS just thinking about the historical end of the spirit that prevails in Missouri!

St. Louis was born and raised in Missouri, but when he died did the people of Missouri claim his body? No. The state of New York did though. When Abraham Lincoln was assassinated the Great State of Illinois immediately claimed sponsorship over the remains of our immortal sixteenth President. The body of Gen. Sherman lay at Calvary Cemetery and apparently he one came about the old traditions of Missouri and St. Louis. Oh Missourians, bring of our indifference towards our great men of the past. Hoping this will find you in the same spirit as I am now in, I thank you.

WHY build for colored St. Louisans
a hospital far from the City Hospi-

Now can anybody tell such outrageous arguments ASKING if the "benefit" is greater than the "cost" to the community? Would it be more than to keep them? Hered was a nobler King in breaking his promise than in keeping it.

Who will be the beneficiaries if the proposed hospital should be built in the proposed "colored" city? Some of the present colored doctors and nurses. Who will be the beneficiaries if it is built adjacent to the present City Hospital? The sick whose lack of finance forces them on the city in the times of their illness. The city will be assured of the strictly good consciences, fair minds, just and honorable hearts? Where is the charity in all housing the sick that they will suffer a foreseen lack of medicinal facilities? Where is the wisdom in causing the city to pay $124,800 for the building the start and approximately $40,000 an

The St. Louis Humane Society has launched a campaign this week for a fund to provide an income of $100,000 for the next five years to enable it to carry on its work of prevention of cruelty to children and animals, especially horses, to maintain its animal shelter and office at 1815 Carr street, to enforce the law with regard to unsanitary stables for horses, mules and cattle, and in general to do a work that is done by no other organization and which cannot well be left to the police, with their multifarious and important duties on other lines.

Although organized for the prevention of cruelty to children as well as animals, the Humane Society does not interfere with the work of the Board of Children's Guardians and Children's Aid Society. With these bodies in existence, its chief duties must concern the welfare of human animals of all sorts, including dogs and cats. In spite of the growth of automobile traffic, there are still hundreds of horses and mules in use as express companies, peddlers and others. In 1925 the society had brought to its attention 1511 cases in which charges of cruelty were raised. It was called upon to destroy 488 draft animals that were unfit for labor or so injured that they had to be killed.

This newspaper has done a grave injustice to Thomas A. Edison. It printed yesterday an Associated Press dispatch saying that Edison had a batting average of .500 as a result of a visit to the training camp of the Philadelphia Athletics. The dispatch proceeded to say that Edison, Gleason pitcher, Connie Mack behind the bat, mugged Gleason's first batter but won his second pitch for a Texas leaguer. If this doesn't give Edison a batting average of 1000 then A. G. Spalding is the King of France.

MR. AND MRS. LOVE of 44 place, who have been in the city for the past few weeks, have just landed in New York at Hotel Lorraine, and will return to St. Louis the next week. Mr. Love spent some time at the residence of their daughter, Miss Love, who is attending school.

Plans to renew the three-year guarantee fund of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, which expires with the current season, have been begun by the St. Louis Symphony Society. It was announced by George H. Markham, chairman of the board of control today.

Three years ago the society obtained in a drive pledges aggregating $100,000, or $150,000 a year for the three-year period. A renewal of securing pledges, and new pledges are being sought at this time because contracts with artists, arrangers and for hall and other details must be completed during the summer preceding the next season.

"Only two sources of support are available for a symphony orchestra," Marchant explained. "First, the receipts from ticket sales. In St. Louis, this for the three percentage income. That in most other cities is 10 percent. Second is gift or subscription income. St. Louis draws a comparatively small sum from that source because of its economical operation."

Marshall related that the St. Louis Orchestra was the oldest in the country, outside of the New York Philharmonic, and had been playing regularly since Civil War days. Development of similar orchestras in other cities had increased the cost of operation because of the greater demand for musical instruments and soloists.

Considers Herself the Servant of the Man She Marries.
By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Feb. 24.—Miss Yvonne

the Japanese writer who has just published a novel in French, but dealing with life in her own country, was in a drawing room with the Comtesse de Noailles, the poetess. The conversation fell on love in Japan, the Cri de Paris recounts. Miss Yamata explained that a Japanese woman considered herself the servant of the man and placed obedience and humility in the first rank of virtues.

"But," asked the Countess, "if you learned that he intended going out to spend the evening with the courtesans, what would you do?" "Look through his purse," replied the Japanese girl, "to see that he had plenty of money with him." The French wives present futilely protested.

RELIGIOUS LIBERTY IN DANGER.

From the Lynchburg News.

The Parson Bill making compulsory the reading of the Bible in the public schools of Virginia is accurately described by the Bristol Herald-Courier as "a slow toward wiping out the line between church and state, and that line should be allowed to stand." The argument that many of our patriotic efforts to force religion upon the people or rather to force a certain religion upon the people is relative of course. There is frequent reference to the American people as being a religious people. It is the kind of an excuse that the tendency in that direction, in any particular case, is barely discernible. The answer is that seldom have rights generally accepted as inalienable been menaced by from a source that seldom has efforts to be made to deny that religion is completely. Sometimes religion has really been no intention. But a narrow slowly and at different periods the zone between liberty and oppression, whatever the famed good to be gained, has always been marked by progress toward abolishing the same entirely. It is sometimes regretted that the present that total abolition. The State has nothing whatever to do with religious education of its people and the minute the State undertakes to meddle with it that minute religious liberty is menaced. The time to stop is before it is begun. The present trend toward a stated march is a long slow one. To stop it now and stop it so definitely that it will be years before a similar attempt is made is the duty of the legislative body of the Commonwealth that guarantees religious freedom to this country.

From an editorial in Welfare Magazine

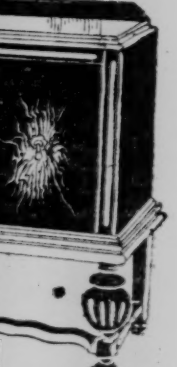

PUBLIC sentiment is no longer the law except the sentiment of us—the law happens to please. It is no longer modified behind law enforcing officials. It is not organized behind fundamental principles of human behavior nor sound moral ethics. It scoffs at this kind of authority, the serious upon the trivial, the virtuous upon the wicked, the hair and short articles as hygienic and in the same breath heaps denunciation upon them on the ground of immorality. It denounces the slightest amendment and again derides the expenditure of millions of dollars for its amendment. The tendency is to see promiscuously yet it wanders if it does not actually encourage, every social profligacy among the young that leads to that end.

There was one before. That means we are going to require much more time for condemnation. I don't believe our department is open to the charge of having been responsible for delay. Its staff should have been increased in 1963; it received some increase two and a half years ago and finally was enlarged sufficiently the first of this year.

TACNA COMMISSION

Denies Peru's Appeal Against Allowing Railway Employees in Disputed Zone to Vote.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—President Coolidge has affirmed rulings of the Tacna-Arica plebiscitary commission on all points involved in appeals by Chile and Peru concerning registration and voting regulations.

Chief interest was attached to the denial of Peru's appeal against a ruling that would permit employees of the railway in the province of vote. A considerable number of votes in the plebiscite, which is to determine whether Chile or Peru has sovereignty over the province, may be made possible under this ruling.

The commission interpreted the general award of the President under which the plebiscite is being arranged as not classifying these employees within the prohibition against giving the voting privilege to any employee of either Government, and the President sustained that view. Peru argued that the fact that Chile owned the railroad made these railway employees Government employees.

Chile protested against the exclusion from the voting privilege of certain classes of judicial, public health, school and municipal officials as well as notaries public and public recorders, but the President as arbitrator sustained the commission also on these points.

The arbitrator gave no explanation of his decision, confining his pronouncement to a statement of the case, citation of the disputed articles of the elections regulations, and the further statement that all supplementary documents submitted by both parties had been carefully examined. The effect of the decision will be to permit the commission to proceed without delay with the printing of regulations and registration forms.

U. S. Street Car Code Proposed.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—A national traffic code to speed up transportation for the majority of big city residents who ride the street cars to and from work, has been proposed by the American Electric Railway Association. The code is one of the principal matters which electric railway executives will lay before Secretary of Commerce Hoover at a conference in Washington next month.

BROOKHART AND EDWARDS DEBATE DRY LAW OVER RADIO

WHEELER, Feb. 26.—Prohibition was "our greatest victory in the World War," and "was a triumph of the American people," in the respective opinions of Senator Brookhart (Rep.) of Ind. and Senator Edwards (Dem.) of New Jersey.

They debated the subject last night over the radio, while Mrs. Mary T. Norton, Democratic representative from New Jersey, was conducting prohibition in a speech at another radio station. Wayne Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, issued a statement assailing the views of Senator Edwards.

The New Jersey Senator called Wheeler the "arch traitor of American liberty, freedom of thought and action," and declaring "not even the sacred courts of our land are free of the poisonous taint of the league's filthy hands and breath."

Wheeler replied that "like a lawyer whose case is bad, Senator Edwards abuses his opponents with names like 'arch traitor' while at the recent wet meeting he referred to himself and his associates as 'chaste Pericles' who seek to fill the Holy Grail with 2.75 per cent beer."

Persons who say that the country has improved because of prohibition "know they are not speaking the truth," Mrs. Norton declared. She said the most serious question now is the harm being done mentally and physically to boys and girls.

COUNTY EMPLOYEES PAID THEIR BACK SALARIES
TREASURER, Acting on Advice of Counsel, Gives Banks Interest Without Warrants.

St. Louis County employees and officials whose January salaries were held up because Presiding Judge Smiley, the one-man opposition party in the County Court, had refused to sign warrants to pay two Clayton banks interest on protested county warrants they cashed last year, now have received their money. County Treasurer Eble, acting on advice of County Counsel Nolan, has paid the banks their interest without warrants.

The treasurer held that in the case of interest demand for payment was sufficient and the presiding judge's signature on warrants was not required. The banks, the St. Louis County Bank and the First National of Clayton, which have collected $12,644 interest, had refused to honor protested warrants until they got this fee, thereby holding up the salaries. The county is unable to meet salary warrants itself because that fund is practically empty. Treasurer Eble until today denied having paid the interest, although the payment was made Feb. 18.

Now the banks will honor warrants signed by Judge Smiley for salaries and other bills, which the county cannot cash, but when warrants are issued for February salaries it remains to be seen whether the Judge will sign them. Doubts continue to exist among officials and employees as to the exact future of county financial matters.

WOMAN CALLED TO DOOR AND ACID THROWN IN FACE
Mrs. Margaret Perkins Severely Burned in Attack by Man and Woman.

Mrs. Margaret Perkins of 6982 Robins avenue, St. Louis County, mother of four children, was severely burned on the lower part of her face by acid thrown when a man and woman unknown to her called her to her front door at 11 o'clock last night. It happened so suddenly, Mrs. Perkins said, she did not get a clear view of the couple nor observe which one of the two threw the acid.

Mrs. Perkins, who is 35 years old and the wife of former Deputy Sheriff William Perkins, of St. Louis County, was taken to St. Mary's Hospital, where it was said the acid did not get into her eyes but probably would permanently disfigure her face.

THREE BOYS STOLE 7 FORDS

Three 15-year-old boys, arrested last night, have admitted the recent thefts of seven Ford automobiles which they say they drove about the city until gasoline was exhausted. Patrolmen Forde and Demange, their suspicions aroused by the actions of two boys in a coupe at sixteenth street and Clark avenue, commandeered another machine, the railroad yards. The police, and pursued to Fifteenth and men overtook one boy, and he Poplar streets, where the boys named the other two, who were abandoned the coupe and fled into arrested at their homes.

MOB OF WINE GROWERS RIOT AGAINST TAX IN GERMANY

Office of Treasury Board Attacked: Records Burned and Furniture Destroyed.

By the Associated Press. FRANKFURT, Prussia, Feb. 26.—A riot occurred yesterday in the famous wine-growing center due to resentment of the Moselle wine growers against the Government's heavy tax on German wines. After a protest meeting, which was addressed by two members of the Reichstag, a mob of 2000, with black flags and placards describing the distress in the wine industry, charged the office of the treasury board, smashed the windows and mauled the officials, then demolished the furniture.

The wreckage and official documents were thrown into the street where they were set on fire. The mob rushed to the tax office next and the furniture and safe in that building were thrown out and everything inflammable went up in smoke.

The mob then crossed the Moselle, attacking the tax office on the other shore, wrecking it.

BANK SCANDAL IN BELGIUM

BRUSSELS, Feb. 26.—The suspension of payments by the Credit Foncier of Antwerp, one of the largest banks in Belgium, assumed the proportions of a scandal when it was announced that the bank issued doctored statements for the last six years. Those arrested are a director, another official and former employees and additional arrests are said to be imminent. The authorities have taken over all the bank's property.

While the exact figures as to losses are not known, it is believed they will be large.

MILLSPAUGH'S DEALINGS WITH M'CUTCHAN AIRED

Woman Assistant Cashier Testifies Then Finance Commissioner and Other Ran Gorin Trust Co.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

HANNIBAL, Mo., Feb. 26.—The name of Frank W. Millspaugh, former State Finance Commissioner, figured prominently in testimony here yesterday and last night at the trial of Millspaugh's friend, Jerome H. McCutchan, of St. Louis, who is charged with swindling in the receipt of a deposit in the now-defunct Citizens' Trust Co. of Gorin, Mo., when he knew it was insolvent. McCutchan was a director of the bank.

Witnesses including Millspaugh's former wife, McCutchan in oral testimony, the state offered a stack of letters that passed between McCutchan and Roy T. Myers, cashier of the Gorin bank.

Some of the correspondence was published in the Post-Dispatch early last year when Gov. Baker removed Millspaugh from office on charges made by Myers. Millspaugh and directors of the Gorin bank were indicted, but Millspaugh was dropped from a technicality. McCutchan is the first of the bank directors to be tried.

Loan of $2000. In one of the letters not previously published, McCutchan asked Myers: "How would you like to loan Millspaugh $2000?" As to this Myers' attorney said books of the bank show the loan was made as suggested by McCutchan.

Testimony about Millspaugh was given by Miss Anna Monroe, assistant cashier of the bank. She took the witness stand late in the afternoon and added interest to the highly technical proceedings which had dragged along since Tuesday. She is 23 years old and a second cousin of Myers and is one of the bank directors under indictment.

Miss Monroe testified that she first met McCutchan in the fall of 1932 when he went to the Gorin bank to make a loan, and was tapped down. McCutchan returned shortly afterward and in a conversation, Millspaugh's presence as Finance Commissioner in St. Louis, had been discredited with the operation of the bank and had asked Myers to resign as cashier.

Mr. McCutchan said he could help Mr. Myers, as Mr. Millspaugh was a personal friend of his and an old neighbor at Canton, Mo., and would go to him and intercede with Miss Monroe.

"I said he saw Millspaugh," he testified.

In his next visit to the bank, McCutchan said he had seen Millspaugh and Millspaugh would be glad to help, but that we would have to also help him (Millspaugh). McCutchan said Millspaugh had suggested we convert our company into Citizens' Bank, Inc., a trust company, and that would make it easier for him and for us.

If we wished to continue in business we had to agree to convert the bank into a trust company and in reality to turn things over to Mr. McCutchan and Mr. Millspaugh in exchange, we were to be dissolved.

We were in trouble with the Finance Department and we felt this was the easiest way out. The money was converted into the Citizens' Bank, Inc. The actual conversion was made.

An explanation of McCutchan's action presented explanation of the steps to be taken.

Millspaugh's approval of the plan was made known to the Finance Department and the actual conversion was made.

At the trial, the state offered a stack of letters that passed between McCutchan and Roy T. Myers, cashier of the Gorin bank.

stock and surplus was not paid in cash. However, McCutchan, according to Miss Monroe, supplied nine notes for $7000 each, and this $63,000 was divided into $9,000 capital, $20,000 surplus and $34,000 credited to McCutchan's personal account.

No Payment to Depositors. The bank was opened and ran for 15 months until the doors were closed July 23, 1934. Depositors have received nothing and probably will not, in fact, the only payment made so far by the bank's liquidation office was $15,214 to Commissioner. Millspaugh as receiver for the depositors' National Bank of St. Louis. This sum represents $15,000 with interest.

Association Also to Study Plans to Eliminate Waste.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—The American Paper and Pulp Association, in annual convention, has authorized a resolution authorizing the carrying out of technical research on engineering and forestry, elimination of paper mill waste, questions of interest to the entire industry.

Another resolution authorized the establishment of a technical committee to study plans for the elimination of waste, stream pollution and to co-operate with Federal and state organizations for the elimination of paper mill waste.

In his annual report, Norman W. Wilson, president of the association, urged the retention of the import duty on foreign made paper, maintaining that the American tariff was necessary to the equilibrium of the American paper industry.

ERNIE NEVERS, CALIFORNIA U. ATHLETIC ACE, REPORTS TO SISLER

College Pitcher Has Essentials That Go to Make a Star, George Says

Brownie Manager Watches His Hurler Carefully in Workouts. Left Florida Breezes Put Kinks in His Wings—New Ball Not So Lively, Austin Finds.

By John E. Wray.
Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

TARTON SPRINGS, Fla., Feb. 18.—Ernie Nevers, one of the best advertised bits of raw baseball material since Jim Thorpe was first signed by John McGraw, who has had more columns of free publicity than perhaps has been bought for all the real estate enterprises in Florida, was on parade at Sister Field today, following his unexpected arrival here yesterday. Nevers was not due until Monday, he having been on his honeymoon trip.

Nevers filled up the best part of the automobile which brought him to the hotel with his 200 pounds of baggage. He crossed shoulders and his brawny build.

Nevers will join the team's right hand pitcher effectively and whether he will make good as a pitcher or not remains to be seen.

Sisler bought him "right un- seen" on the strength of his athletic reputation at Stanford University where he was football basketball and basketball ace for his club.

"I have never seen Nevers at work," Sisler said today. "I bought him partly on hearsay and partly because an athlete of Nevers' all round quality is almost certain to have the essentials that go to make a great player. Besides he is certain to be tremendous attraction in case he comes through as his publicity is ready made. I am counting on him to be a first-class baseball prospect."

All eyes will surely be on the man who as a football player was credited with being at least the equal of Red Grange and who signed a contract after his football season last year that called for $25,000 for five games.

Nevers not belonging to any baseball organization, received a cash bonus, reported as being $1500 for signing with the Browns contingent on his reporting. It was at first rumored that he would not join the club because of movie offers but here he is.

For the next few days he will be the talk of the town, while he is sending larger delegations to

BILL TILDEN IS DEFEATED AT SINGLES SECOND TIME IN A WEEK

Lacoste Victor In Straight Sets In Indoor Match

Vincent Richards Defeats Jean Borotra in Other International Contest.

By Charles E. Parker. of the New York World Sport Staff.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—For the second time in as many matches Bill Tilden has been forced to bow in straight sets to an up and coming rival of France.

One week ago it was Jean Borotra, the bounding Basque, who whipped Tilden in the quarter final match of the national indoor championship, 12-11, 6-3, and yesterday it was 22-year-old Rene Lacoste who turned the trick.

Lacoste's triumph came in the first match of the French-American International Tournament in the Seventh Regiment armory—was by 6-4, 8-6, 6-3.

Richards Defeats Borotra. Vincent Richards, meeting Jean Borotra in the second match of the series, retrieved some glory for America and carried the tournament into the second day with the score tied, when with a fine display of all-around skill and strategy, he took the measure of the man from Paris by the scores of 6-4, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Richards and Tilden will face Lacoste and Jacques Brugnon in a doubles battle at 4 p. m. as the feature of today's team program.

THE BEST TEAM COBB EVER SAW

Chapter XXXIII in Ty's Life Story As Told by Himself

BEFORE completing my selection of the All-American League and the All-National League teams as well as naming what I regard the best ball club I ever saw in action let me digress a moment on the trend of baseball. To me it is always a most interesting study—this development of a boyhood amusement into an exact science.

In baseball we have had two great periods of hitting, and strange to say, they were each of five years' duration—1893 to 1898 and 1920 to 1925. The lowest club of hitting was from 1915 to 1919.

The spitball and freak pitching were then at their height, and the connection between the pitching and the low hitting is quite apparent.

Yet it is also interesting to note that the last great base running cycle started around 1908 and 1909 and ended about 1917. The man who studies the game can draw some valuable deductions from this.

About the Athletics. I am frank to say that from 1920 to 1925, inclusive, the standard of baseball was lowered considerably. I lay this to the introduction of the lively ball.

One standing proof of the perpetration of this crime in 1925 was the downfall of the Athletics. Just before the ball was changed again they were slashing their way through, driving all pitchers to grief. Suddenly their hits failed to carry up against the fences and then we all discovered what type of a ball club they really had.

I mention these things to make clear my process of reasoning in selecting the star players of both leagues. We have, for example,

Seago Suffered Fractured Bone In Kansas Game

Washington U. Basketball Captain Left Behind When Squad Departs for Iowa.

When the Washington U. squad of 10 basketball players departed last night for their two Iowa contests, tonight and tomorrow night with Drake and Ames, Coach Don White was forced to leave behind his two leading scorers, Capt. Russell Seago, center, and Carl Stanford, forward. Seago is suffering from a fracture of his left shoulder blade and a badly bruised wrist and back.

An X-ray yesterday of Stanford's ankle revealed a bone chip which is causing the lanky forward considerable pain. Stanford, however, is in better shape than Seago, who may not see action for the remainder of the season. Stanford's ankle will probably allow him to play in next week's games with Missouri, Drake and Nebraska.

In addition to a starting lineup of Eckert, Hutton, McCarroll, Cox and Winkler, Coach White will carry as reserves Chapman, Pipkin, Rippetoe, Hayes and Whacker.

Webster May Win Title Tonight

Five County League high schools will play tonight in two conferences and one nonconference basketball game. Clayton and Webster are scheduled to meet at Webster and University City and Kirkwood at Kirkwood, while Maplewood plays John Burroughs on the latter floor.

Interest centers on the Clayton-Webster meeting as a Webster victory will mean the title. The previous meeting of the teams resulted in a 19-to-9 victory for Webster. Clayton's only defeat of the season, Webster's only defeat of the season, was a 19-to-9 victory for Webster.

Principia Academy will play the Kingshighway Presbyterian basketball squad tonight at Howard gym in the feature of a double-header which includes a preliminary between the second teams.

St. John's Team Meets Concordia Quint Tonight

Kansas Five Has Beaten Washburn College, A. A. U. Champions.

St. John's College of Winfield, Kan., which owns a victory over Washburn College, National A. A. U. champions, will play the Concordia Seminary basketball squad tonight on the Emmaus School court and the Coliseum A. C. tomorrow night at the Coliseum. Tonight's contest will start at 8:30 o'clock.

Carl Rosell, playing his third year on the varsity, is the star forward and high point man of the visiting team. Lou Dau, a St. Louis boy, is a regular on the St. John's squad and is playing his second year. Dau is also a football and basketball man.

Concordia has had a two weeks' rest and the players have had plenty of time to polish up their shooting. Coach Penega has developed a strong attack in Jesse Ludwig and Heins and the combination has worked smoothly in practice games.

COUNTRESS CATHART NOT WANTED IN THE MOVIES

Theater Owners and Advertisers Indorse Campaign to Fight Commercializing of Notoriety.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Theatrical producers and managers night club proprietors, publishers, press agents and trades people will not be joined by any movie men in the mad scramble to board the Countess Cathart case.

A movement developed yesterday to discourage motion picture producers from even contemplating the extending of a contract to Countess Vera Cathart unless there are evidences, beyond the question of a reasonable doubt, that she possesses real talent.

The campaign was originated by R. P. Woodhull, president of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of America, who called upon the members of that organization, said to include 80 per cent of the exhibitors in this country and Canada, to oppose signing contracts with "persons who possess no real talent and seek only to commercialize notoriety." Later Woodhull appeared before the convention of the Motion Picture Advertisers and induced that meeting to indorse the idea.

DRY LAW PROSECUTIONS

$20,000,000 in Fines and Civil

Judgments Collected, Report to House Committee Says.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Prohibition prosecutions under the national dry act have totaled 238,818.

R. M. Kennard, administrative accountant for the Department of Justice, told a House appropriation subcommittee in reports of hearings made public today.

Of these cases, Kennard said

217,021 were criminal prosecutions and 21,797 were civil suits. Collections of fines and civil judgments totaled $20,000,000. The witness explained that the increas-in civil actions had been due largely to railroad cases and injunction proceedings.

Representative Tinkham (Rep.

of Massachusetts, a member of the committee and one of the leaders of the work remarked that "people do not seem to be taking particularly kindly to this law."

PLEA FOR LAW ENFORCEMENT BY COL. M'QUIGG

American Legion Commander Says Conditions Should Interest Thoughtful Men and Women.

Col. John R. McQuigg, national commander of the American Legion, is in St. Louis today participating in the observance of "American Legion Day."

In a luncheon talk before civic organizations and legion posts at the Chamber of Commerce dining room he declared himself for a "stronger and more even-handed administration of law throughout the United States."

There is a growing feeling among certain elements of our two-nation that there is one law for the rich and another for the poor," he declared. "Of course this is not true, but the outcome of numerous trials serve to engender a feeling that something is radically wrong. If there ever was a time in the history of America when law and order needed to be maintained, it is now. Last year, we are told, there were more than 11,000 murders committed in America. Twenty-four times as many were committed in Great Britain. It is times as many were committed in Japan and five times as many as were committed in Canada.

That condition should challenge the careful thought of every man and woman in America. In this country we have just such laws and just such law enforcement as the majority of the people insist upon having. If law is not enforced, it is as though the majority of the people are indifferent or too much engrossed in their own affairs. And when I speak of law enforcement, I am not referring to mere enforcement of the law, but to the enforcement of the law in a way that is fair and just to all.

The fact of the matter is, during the last several years there has been a letting down in the morale of the American people. The courts and juries are not doing their duty. The law is not being enforced. The law is being enforced in a way that is unfair and unjust to all.

This small minority is made up of 15 to 20 million people who are engaged in crime for the sake of money and power. They are the ones who are responsible for the lawlessness of our country. They are the ones who are responsible for the lawlessness of our country.

Col. McQuigg arrived in St. Louis at 7 a. m. today and at 2 p. m. led a motor parade of Legion members to Jefferson Barracks Veterans Hospital. Assembling at Veterans Bureau headquarters, 4018 Chestnut street, the parade moved via Vandeventer avenue, Polson avenue, Thirty-ninth street, Magnolia avenue, Grand boulevard, Cherokee street and Broadway. Col. McQuigg delivered a short talk at the hospital and then drove to the Chamber of Commerce luncheon.

This afternoon Col. McQuigg was

SCORES OF STOCKS AT YEAR'S LOWS

Standard Industrials Follow High-Priced Specialties in Downturn in Large Market—Real Liquidation Reported.

By Leased Wire from The New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch, NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—The Evening Post in its tonight's issue (at press time today says:

"Real liquidation swept prices of speculative securities to new low levels today. Heavy trading on the stock market today scores of specialties and standard industrials broke through previous advance points and a general downward movement, that gained force toward the end of the day in spite of predictions of a rally, there was a general feeling of liquidation. The severity of the decline brings water the prospect of a resumption of activity by the public. Professional operators again dominated the situation, centering their activities for a time on high-priced specialties which appeared to offer the greatest opportunities for quick profits. Call loans were advanced to 2 1/2 per cent when banks called $25,000,000 in loans for end of the month requirements. Bonds were lower as a result of declines in convertible issues. Government issues were fairly steady, while high-grade investments were quiet.

Selling Wave Gains Force. With the advance in the call loan rate to 2 1/2 per cent and the indication that funds would be drawn over the end of the month, professional operators launched another attack on specialties and effected the sharpest declines of the day in more active trading. Stop loss orders were uncovered when pool operators removed support from their favorites. Settlement caused by wide open selling in several specialties, unrelenting pressure was turned against the standard industrial list and prices melted swiftly in many of the favorites. Motor stocks continued in the downward sweep which embraced rails, utilities, food stocks and merchandising shares. Almost three score issues reached new low records for the year before the end of the hectic session. Support which had been evident under the surface for several days appeared to have vanished.

All Groups Feel Pressure. Specialties were the first to feel the effect of renewed selling pressure. American Brake Shoe and Foundry and Smith, Coca-Cola, General Railway Signal, New York Central, a long list of others, eased off steadily. Standard Industrial broke advanced and American Can, General Electric, General Motors, Ford, International Harvester, Johnson and Johnson, and others followed. In a slump of the motor shares in the merchandising group, Woolworth, and others followed. Deane and Reynolds resumed its downward slide, reaching a level about 60 points under its recent high of the year. Disappointment over the absence of favorable developments in the rail merger negotiations was resented in a further break in Nickel Plate and other rails. Delaware and Hudson was weak.

Exchange Market Quiet. Trading in foreign exchanges was in small volume and rates showed a tendency to improve. French francs featured by a sharp drop of 2 points, only to be later part of the gain. Norwegian crown was eased off, while Dutch guilder was higher. Sterling market was within narrow limits recovering an earlier setback. Japanese exchange developed strength again.

Liquidation in Commodities. Liquidation is the principle commodity market today. Wheat and new low levels in wheat, cotton, futures and contracts. Cotton from $12.50 to $13.00, new low records being at the lower end of the range. Wheat fell from one cent to two cents a bushel, while corn and other grains sagged in sympathy.

Mysterious Sweetheart

By Ella Wister Haines

CHAPTER EIGHT.

What Has Gone Before.

Carolina Menendez, a beautiful young Spanish girl, brought up in a South American convent, is traveling alone to Los Angeles at the command of her guardian, whom she has never seen. During the last lap of the journey, between Chicago and Los Angeles, she wakes suddenly in the night and sees clutching the curtains of the berth opposite, a white hand wearing a gorgeous and startling robe. She steps into the aisle to investigate and meets Paul Reynolds, a young New York lawyer, whom she first met on the train after leaving New York, and who changed his ticket in Chicago, so that his berth would be next hers. Reynolds sends her back to bed, but in the morning they learn that a man has been found in one of the berths, apparently murdered. A broken chain is found about his neck. The conductor questions the occupants of the car and it comes to light that Carolina made the journey from South America on the same steamer with the dead man and was annoyed by his advances. Reynolds admits acquaintance with a Mr. and Mrs. Brown, who left the train late the previous evening, and prior to that were seen talking with the dead man. Later it is learned that the dead man was a man named Walter Reynolds, and that he had been found on the floor of the car, and Reynolds guesses it is the strange man who he fears it belongs to the dead man, to protect her, he claims it himself. When he attempts to return it to her, he declares his love for her and offers it as a present.

FRANK HYATT.

An answer trembled upon her lips, her eyes suffused with tears. Neither of them noticed that the train had pulled up at a station, and a man's hand clapped upon Paul's shoulder, made them both jump.

"Well, hello! Congratulations to the world's swiftest traveler, caught the express by the skin of your teeth after the whole office had been snowed under by your wires. What on earth has happened, anyway? Where is Mrs. Reynolds?"

Paul was on his feet, starting at his friend in amazement. "The whole office snowed under by my wires? Why, man, are you talking about? I only sent one."

"And the conductor sent one, and Walter sent one, and Mrs. Reynolds sent one, and John Carr sent one. Good Lord!"

"Mrs. Reynolds? From Santa Barbara?"

"Santa Barbara? No! This morning I saw her with you!"

"Heavens! I left New York on an hour's notice because she wired me from Santa Barbara to come without an instant's delay, specifying this train!"

"Are you sure? Her tone was incredulous. Where did you receive the wire? At the office? In writing?"

"No, I was lunching at the club, and called to the telephone. A voice said, 'Are you Paul Reynolds? This is Western Union. I have an important message for you from Santa Barbara. Call. I'll throw a few things into my bag and get on the twentieth century as it was pulling out, using Day's ticket. You remember that he was taking that train West to confer with you about Father's estate?'"

Frank Hyatt's face, as he listened to these words, was a study, and now his glance wandered to Carolina, and catching Paul's hand, hastened to introduce them.

"Carolina, this is my friend Frank Hyatt. Frank is Miss Carolina Menendez. What time is it, anyway? We haven't had lunch yet."

"Lunch? You mean dinner? It's a clock, man. I am glad to meet you, Miss Menendez. His eyes were looking the lovely girl before him, and perhaps his glance had a little faster—he was a bachelor himself!"

Carolina shook hands shyly. America seemed to be overflowing with charming men.

"Mr. Reynolds has spoken of you," he said. "I am glad that you have come. I will ask you to please excuse me now. I am very tired."

Paul slipped the ruby into the pocket of his coat, overwhelmed by disappointment. Frank's entrance had interrupted him at the crucial moment, preventing the ruby which had hovered upon the girls lips. Had that reply been yes or no?

"For heaven's sake," Frank Hyatt exclaimed as they seated themselves in Paul's section, "what's happening here? Where's your soap-mother? If she could see you telegraphing me from Santa Barbara early this morning, unless she had been on this train!"

"I can imagine that was the question when Walter and his wife got off—at least, I supposed it was his wife. I never seen her. Couldn't it have been Mrs. Walter Reynolds you heard from?"

"Certainly not. It was signed Cynthia Reynolds."

"Who could be using Frank's name?"

"Crazy nothing! Here are the messages!" He handed Paul a batch of yellow telegraph blanks bound No. 1 to identify young man claiming to be Paul Reynolds of Carr & Reynolds, Attorneys, New York. Conductor Train No. 1.

"Make every effort to join me train No. 1, Santa Fe, Westward bound today. Paul."

"Impetuous you join me on Santa Fe Train No. 1, Cynthia Reynolds."

"Have picked up important news in Southwest. Postpone action upon father's will until you hear from me. Walter Reynolds."

"Have received startling communications concerning the Reynolds estate. Starting west today. John Carr."

"This beats the Dutch," Paul exclaimed. "Let's take them one by one."

"Then begin with yours," Frank agreed.

"Mine is the simplest of all! An unknown traveler was found dead in this car this morning."

"When?" Frank gave a low whistle.

"My ticket bears the name of Mark Day, worse luck, and by some strange coincidence, Walter and a woman occupied the drawing room under the name of Mr. and Mrs. Brown, getting off before daylight at the junction from which they telegraphed you. That left this young girl, a couple of Salvation Army lasses and myself alone in the car. There was a broken chain about the man's neck, which led the conductor to suspect that he had been robbed. I'll tell you more about that later. It's been a mighty nasty affair. What I want to know now is, how could my father's widow have telegraphed me from Santa Barbara and yet be on this train? If she were on this train, why haven't I seen her?"

"How long since you have seen her?" Frank asked.

"Paul had replied.

"Must be five years," he said.

"Fact is, she's almost a stranger to me. I was a kid at first, living with my grandmother, then a school and the war and college and she left me so close to the New York office that I have only been to Santa Barbara once. Mrs. Reynolds invariably became ill every time I had brought her East, and on several of these visits I did see her on account of being out of town. I remember her as a very young and handsome woman, a brilliant blonde."

"She's still wonderfully young looking," Frank commented. "See here, Paul, suppose that telegram never came from Santa Barbara, or even from Western Union? Somebody telephoned it to you?"

"But Frank, what is behind all this? There is some mystery about my father's will—the sealed codicil, not to be opened until six weeks after my father's death, the strange wording of the will itself. I cannot imagine how a man of his ability and experience could have made such a mess of his will. Surely he must have known it would cause trouble. And how you and Burns even allowed him to do such a thing is another appalling question! What is in that codicil? I feel exactly as if I were a Conan Doyle detective story."

"Perhaps you are! We seem to be dealing with the family skeleton, all right, but the will can be got back to these messengers. If Mrs. Reynolds telegraphed from this train you surely must have seen her? Well, go through in a few minutes and find her!"

"If she had been on this train, Frank, the conductor would know it, for the name of Reynolds has been very prominent in this car today, believe me! However, we'll make a thorough search. Let's get back to the train now. I know from the conductor that Walter and I were on our New York office this morning before we changed trains at the junction. He had a woman with him who made herself conspicuous by wearing a gorgeous gown, the trip ended during a card game. What does his wife look like? I have never seen her."

"I only know that he is married," said Frank. "I have never seen her either."

"The devil you haven't! I think I can bet on the reason for John Carr's communication. The conductor told me that Walter had a copy of the telegram, but he would not show it to me."

"That explains Carr's sudden trip. At any rate," Frank agreed, "let's go through the train now and see every blooming person in it."

"You're sure, here you would know Mrs. Reynolds if you saw her?"

"Know her? Like my own sister."

"Well," said Paul with a sigh of relief, "what's some comfort." In his heart he experienced a great sense of thankfulness for the thought of the presence of his stepmother upon the train, for he could enlist her sympathies in the search.

"I can imagine that was the question when Walter and his wife got off—at least, I supposed it was his wife. I never seen her. Couldn't it have been Mrs. Walter Reynolds you heard from?"

"Certainly not. It was signed Cynthia Reynolds."

Sammy Jay Loses His Temper

Fewer tempers would be lost, if people did but count the cost.

REDDY FOX grinned up at Mocker the Mocking Bird, as he sat looking down from high up in a tree. "Mr. Mocker," said he, "I've come way over here just to tell you how wonderfully like Mr. Pheasant's voice your voice is. My, my, my, I never heard anything like it! Do you know, Mr. Mocker, you almost fooled me!"

"Did I?" asked Mr. Mocker. "Yes," replied Reddy, "you almost fooled me. If I hadn't known better I should have said that that was Mr. Pheasant crowing. Can you imitate any one else, Mr. Mocker?"

"Certainly," replied Mr. Mocker, and all the time he was chuckling down inside, for he knew that he had fooled Reddy Fox.

"Who can you imitate?" asked Reddy.

"Who would you like to hear me imitate?" Mr. Mocker asked.

"Let me hear you imitate Sammy Jay."

Hardly were the words out of Reddy's mouth when the cry of "Thief, thief, thief!" rang out above him, and it was so exactly like Sammy Jay's voice that before he thought Reddy looked to see if Sammy had arrived without being noticed. Sammy hadn't but he would arrive soon, for they heard him crying "Thief, thief, thief!" and that sound was drawing nearer.

There was nothing pleasant about Sammy's voice. It had an angry sound. Mocker flew over to a hemlock tree and hid in the thickest part of it. Once more he screamed just like Sammy Jay. Reddy Fox sat behind the little brush heap nearby and grinned. It was evident that Sammy Jay was losing a little more of his temper with every beat of his wing.

Presently Sammy arrived, quite out of breath. He began to look about in every direction. The crest on his handsome head was standing up. It was plain to see that Sammy had come to pick a fight. "Thief, thief, thief!" he screamed. Almost instantly there was a reply from a little clump of hemlock trees. Over there flew Sammy, so angry that he could hardly scream. It was one thing for him to call another person a thief, and quite another thing to be called a thief. What Sammy thought was that a strange Jay from far away had come to the Green Forest, and Sammy didn't want him there. He intended to drive him away, and do it without any waste of time.

"Who would you like to hear me imitate?" Mr. Mocker asked.

Now, as Sammy flew toward that clump of hemlock trees Mocker the Mocking Bird slipped out on the other side and into another very thick hemlock tree. So of course Sammy found no one. He screamed again, for his temper was quite lost by this time. Right away someone screamed back at him. Over to the next hemlock tree flew Sammy, but already Mocker had slipped out of it and flown to another hemlock some distance away. There he screamed again, just like Sammy Jay. Sammy was the most upset Blue Jay you ever saw. Yes, sir, he was so. He was so angry that he didn't even notice Reddy Fox grinning up at him. Straight for that other tree flew Sammy. When he got there of course he found no one but Mr. Mocker. Mocker was very innocent as he sat in the top of the tree.

"Where is that other Jay?" demanded Sammy, after he had looked all through the tree.

"Is there another Jay?" inquired Mocker innocently. "I haven't seen one anywhere. He certainly isn't here." And this is all the satisfaction that Sammy Jay got.

Pope Subinianus is constructing the first church bell. Desiring to improve on the cymbal, used from time immemorial to summon the multitude to procession or prayer, this industrious priest, by riveting together thin metal plates, made a bell. Thus he wrought the ancestor of the silver-tongued family, whose useful voice is now heard, not only summoning us to worship, but also announcing the advent of bicycle, burglar, book agent or "wrong number."

Three-Minute Journeys

By Temple Manning

STRATEGY has always been necessary in the hunting of birds, but rarely is it carried to such a degree as in certain portions of Africa.

Among the Munsu tribe of Basa, men imitate the birds they are trying to capture. Dressed in shirts of straw, so that they will blend with the background, they hold a head of the species of bird they are seeking close to their own heads. In this strange garb, looking to human eyes more like a caricature of an ostrich than anything else, they stalk their prey.

But to the unsuspecting bird they seem merely a brother awaying on a tall branch. And the method is remarkably successful. For most times the hunter returns laden down with his prey.

Of course, the method would be extremely dangerous in our own country. A hunter who looked like his prey from a distance would very likely get a bullet through his head before the day was over. But in Africa, where the woods are not so crowded with hunters and the method is well known, this does not happen. The Munsu are not a hunting people, primarily. They are farmers and till their land with industry and patience. They are successful at this calling, too. But their weakness lies in a failing for liquor and a quarrelsome disposition.

And hunting is a good means of satisfying their craving for liquor, for the birds can be exchanged for the desired drink. That is the reason, undoubtedly, why they are willing to incur the danger of hunting in so precarious a fashion. It requires practice to become sufficiently expert at imitating a bird to be able to deceive the bird itself. One must have patience and skill to stand in the fields hour after hour, watching for the prey and keeping one's hand crouched down out of sight.

It must be cruel for the bird who unsuspectingly approaches one of his kind to be suddenly shot down. But since it is an effective means of getting his prey, the African

A Pleasant Cleaner.

A Hint for the Fat Lady.

She may tease the very stoutest for always wearing black, but being as though she were thin but perhaps they would be a great deal more if she suddenly appeared in brilliant colors that emphasized her size.

TOUGH LUCK

THE new summer uniforms of the traffic and mounted police men will be forest green—New York.

O. H. Paddy, dear, and did you hear the news that's going round? In uniforms of forest green the coppers will be found. Just when the Irish on the force are getting scarce and few, they dress the harness bulls in green instead of navy blue. 'Tis the most outrageous action that the world has ever seen—Imagine Heine Tietelbaum dressed up in forest green!

WHY NOT?

Speaking of coppers and other international complications, as long as they have to carry a gun, why not carry it in a holster in a Sam Brown belt where they can get their hands on it when they want it? There wouldn't be so many of them drilled while they were prowling around under the coats-tails for their artillery.

The Rocky Mountain region, the backbone of prohibition and dryness area in the United States, is said to be clamoring for irrigation.

This, of course, will be denied in a bowlegged gait.

WHITE HOUSE DISCLAIMS CREDIT FOR TAX SLASH

"Spokesman" Expresses Gratification at Efficiency of Congress, but
Warns of Possible Deficit

PROMISES CAREFUL WATCH ON EXPENSES

Recalls Fact That President Has Signed Bills Reducing Federal Levies by $700,000,000.

By CHARLES MICHELSON.
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Apparently the popular idea that President Coolidge and Secretary
Hoover were behind the tax bill was an error. The White House spokesman explained, and reiterated yesterday that the amount of revenue collected and disbursed was a matter peculiarly appertain-ing to Congress.

The spokesman was so decided about this that he took off his big rimmed glasses and wiped them up and down, which is the custom of White House spokesmen on Mr. Coolidge's advent. The spokesman expressed the gratification felt by the President at the passage of the measure and made it the occasion of a new tribute to the efficiency of Congress, which transcended that of any Congress of which he had knowledge.

Looking over his big spectacles, the communicating member of the national government went on to make clear that Congress directs what taxes shall be collected and what expenditures made. The President, he said, can do something to limit expenditures, but can do nothing about the revenue.

Predicts Deficit.

This was apropos of a remark that the tax reduction was in excess of what the President had thought, notified, and the spokesman actually stated the chief of questions that had been sent in by the correspondents as he indicated that the President would scrutinize carefully the appropriations if Congress did not keep the disbursements low.

With particular grimness the spokesman prophesied a deficit of about $100,000,000 in 1937 as a result of Congress' ill-considered generosity to the taxpayers. The Treasury, he said, had estimated amounted to about $23,000,000. A reduction of $200,000,000 in taxes was endurable, but Congress cut it to $100,000,000.

However, the White House spokesman was not all gloom. He stated that the two revenue bills signed by the President executive had taken a total burden of $200,000,000 off the taxpayers' backs.

Praise for Congress.

And it's a grand Congress, anyway. The spokesman became almost lyrical as he recounted the speed and accuracy with which it had performed its functions. He repeated that the President was very much pleased by the way Congress had co-operated with him. He could not help Congress much with the legislation although, of course, he had his own ideas and he believed that with Congress, that body ought to be left as free as possible.

The spokesman did not say so,
but if he wished, the President could visit the full penalty for congressional excesses by exercising the veto power on the courthouses, postoffices and river improvements that mean so much to the Congressmen.
However, the only specific appropriations which he mentioned were the army and navy bills, each of which carries an additional $20, $30,000,000. Congress can waste for White House censure of these appropriations with a degree of impunity that it would not sus-tain if there was interference with the pork barrel.

No Further Reductions.

No further tax reductions can be looked for for some time, the official utterance said, and there seemed to be a tinge of sadness in the announcement. The wicked Democrats more than once have declared that the reason for the hesitancy in tax cuts was the desire to save something for a rainy day—just ahead of the national election two years hence.

While the Federal Government has been cutting things, the local and state Governments have been increasing them. However, General of the Budget Lord called—it was not quite clear whether he called the spokesman or on the President—but it was the spokesman who
